San Rafael Ponders Nov. 5 Bond Vote For New City Hall

San Rafael city councilmen are considering putting a bond issue on the Nov. 5 ballot to finance a new city hall.

The city can buy the site on Fifth Avenue selected for the new city hall from proceeds of sales of its surplus property. City Manager Dan E. Andersen told the council at a luncheon meeting yesterday at Ruckey's Rancho Rafael in Ignacio. But even wiping out the reserve would not pay for the building itself from current revenues.

Present general purpose tax rate of the city is 72 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This could be raised to $1 without an election. One cent on the tax rate produces $6,000, said Andersen.

Councilmen inclined toward a bond issue—which would increase cost but spread it over a 25-year period—instead of such a sharp tax increase. The bond issue, however, would require two-thirds approval of the voters.

Another major city project could be included in the bond issue, suggested Councilman Charles W. Aby: purchase of property for extension of Second Street and widening of Third Street near San Rafael High School (negotiations for the latter are under way now).

The Second Street extension would tie in with freeway improvements which are expected to route Marin's major east-west traffic artery through San Rafael. Andersen said property acquisition for the two street projects is estimated at $355,000. Construction would be from gasoline tax funds.

The city manager gave this picture of the financial needs for a new city hall:

Cost of the Fifth Avenue property, $500,000; cost of construction, site improvements and furnishings, $99,000. Both of these figures are estimates by Ebasco Services, which made a city hall survey for the city.

This brings a total cost of $1,229,000.

The city has cash on hand, not earmarked for other purpose, of about $485,000 (of this $200,000 has been carried from year to year as a reserve toward a new city hall). Andersen estimated $400,000 could be realized from sale of city property on Francisco Boulevard which is not in use for the corporation yard, and $35,000 from sale of surplus city property at Fourth and Union Streets.

This would provide a total of $920,000—about $300,000 short of the amount needed to finance the city hall project.

He estimated the present city hall property would sell for at least $250,000. It could not be sold, however, until a new city hall is available.

Ebasco Services has proposed also building a new central fire station, with administrative headquarters for the fire department. Its estimate is $194,000 for this.

"If you're going for a bond issue, you might as well put in the firehouse, too," Andersen suggested. (The present central firehouse, like the city hall, could not be sold until replaced.)

Total cost for the city hall, firehouse, and street extensions — beyond available cash and money from surplus property sale — would be about $850,000.

"We might as well go for a million," said Councilman Fred E. Jensen.

A bond issue slightly under a million dollars—perhaps as a single measure or perhaps as one measure for city hall-firehouse and one for street extension—met general approval of the five councilmen.

McInnis directed that Andersen be ready by the June 18 city council meeting to start legal steps toward sale of the surplus property, from which funds the new city hall site could be purchased at once. He was directed also to find out by that date what legal steps must be taken to get a bond proposal on the November ballot.

1 Dead, 1 Hurt In Waldo Accident

Survivor Denies He Was Driver

A San Diego man was killed at 2 p.m. yesterday when the pickup truck in which he was riding overturned on Waldo Grade on Highway 101.

Melvin Cowley Monk, 42, was Marin County's second traffic fatality within 24 hours and the ninth this year.

Thursday night, 19-year-old Monika Karin Boes, of 4136 Redwood Highway, Marinwood, was fatally injured in a similar accident on St. Vincent's Hill.

John Morrison, 29, of San Francisco reportedly driver of the pickup truck in yesterday's accident, suffered major injuries.

Both men were thrown from the overturning vehicle, California Highway Patrol officers said. A witness, Bernard Zannoni, 44, of 914 Irwin Street, San Rafael, identified Morrison as the driver.

Morrison, however, told officers he was not driving. He said Monk had given him a ride, but he couldn't remember where Monk picked him up. He also said he didn't know Monk and had never seen him before.

Zannoni, a driver for United Ambulance Service, was southbound, taking a patient to San Francisco, when he saw a slow-moving blue pickup truck weaving from lane to lane ahead of him pulled off the road and stopped.

The ambulance driver stopped also and told the truck driver — whom he later identified as Morrison — to stay there and not to drive any farther. At this, Zannoni said, Morrison drove south at high speed, swung into the inside lane and hit the center divider barrier.

The pickup truck went out of control, crashed over the divider rail and somersaulted in the northbound lanes.

The victims were taken to Marin General Hospital in another ambulance. Monk was dead on arrival. Morrison's condition was listed as critical with head wounds and possible internal injuries, cuts and

Tunnel Insurance Would Be Invested

Southern Pacific Co. has plans for investment elsewhere of $200,720 insurance it collected for damages to the closed Puerto Suello tunnel of its subsidiary Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

Two if its executives testified to that effect at the closing session yesterday afternoon of a prolonged Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on NWP's application to abandon the tunnel—and with it, mainline service to San Rafael from the north.

The hearing, before ICC examiner F. Roy Linn, had occupied 10 days at three San Francisco locations. It started last Jan. 25, recessed to late March, then recessed again to this week.

Linn ordered attorneys to have briefs in Washington by July 23 after hearing from the official stenographer that it will take two weeks to complete the transcript, which will be studied by ICC officials together with briefs and the examiner's recommendation.

His own report, Linn said, will be completed "wherever I am" and whenever he can finish it.

REBUTTALS

The whole of yesterday was occupied by testimony of witnesses called by railroad attorney Randolph Karr in rebuttal of testimony or documentary exhibits of the opposition, comprising attorneys for the City of San Rafael and County of Marin and the Santa Fe Railroad.

There was occasional questioning by representatives of the state Public Utilities Commission and the railroad brotherhoods, neither of which took positive position on the overall issue.

FUTURE HAZARD

"Suicidal hazards" to workers would be involved in following engineer J. Donovan Jacob's ideas of filling the collapsed tunnel if abandonment is permitted, said Jones, Southern Pacific Co. maintenance engineer who was the final witness.

The railroad has not accepted liability for damages caused by the tunnel's collapse in a fire last July 20. But Jacobs, consulting engineer employed by San Rafael, said it would be required lest subsidence affect land owned by San Rafael, by the state, Marin County, the City, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Espindola, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schwartz, and others. His plans included removal of debris followed by back-filling of either end.

Thomas E. Walsh, income tax auditor for Southern Pacific, testified on complicated tax points and criticized tax proposals of another San Rafael-hired expert, Jacob's associate, J. P. Hawke.

TAX DEBATE

At one point Walsh accused Hawke of employing "a gimmick not allowable for income tax purposes but used here as a means of reducing the apparent cost of this (reconstruction) work."

"I wouldn't say," Walsh went in illustration, "that if I hadn't bought a Cadillac I had thereby saved $5,000."

Walsh said no decision has been made as to how the $200,720 in insurance money will be spent. "We have until the end of this year to decide whether to put it into general fund, which at this time I favor, or treat it as applicable to improvements," he said.

When Thor H. Sjostrand, transportation analyst for Southern Pacific who had already testified, took the stand again, he said he did not favor spending the insurance money on restoration of the Puerto Suello tunnel.

"We have numerous plans for making sound investments with our money, beneficial to the public by speeding up trains and generally providing better transportation," he said.

"If we take $1 and sock it into the tunnel, even if we get 52 cents back it will be less profitable than an investment elsewhere."

"What concerns this commission is the ultimate public interest," interjected Frederick G. Pfommer, attorney for the Santa Fe. "The witness can tell what he prefers, but that isn't pertinent."

Car Carrying 8 Rolls Off Highway 1

A car carrying eight Marin teenagers rolled 500 feet into a canyon off Highway 1 near Green Gulch Ranch at 11:30 o'clock last night, but California Highway Patrolman said the occupants were so tightly packed in the vehicle that none was seriously hurt.

The driver, Johnathan Henry Holland, 18, of 44 Mohawk Avenue, Corte Madera, told officers that he pulled to the right to make room for an oncoming vehicle as he was southbound up a hill. The next thing he knew, he said, the car was rolling down the embankment.

Two passengers, Donna Schriver, 16, of 7 Belmont Avenue, Fairfax, and Peter Winston, 16, of Larkspur, were treated for minor injuries at Marin General Hospital. Miss Schriver had a cut on her left leg and bruises. Winston had contusions and a sprained right shoulder.

Others in the car were Robert Leonard Frank, 18, of Forest Knolls; Jane Garner, 16, of 211 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera; Cary Peck, 16, of Kentfield; Barbara Johnson, 16, of San Rafael, and Marian Augustus, 17, of Greenbrae.

Tax Rise In Sight For Mill Valley

Mill Valley city councilmen, at a budget study session today, agreed to add at least 16½ cents to the tax rate for employee retirement and the city library.

Council members reached agreement on three points:

1. To accept the request of the Mill Valley City Employees Assn. and take steps to bring employees into the California state retirement system.
2. To raise the library tax from its present 26.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 30 cents, the legal maximum.
3. To do something about the city summer recreation program so that it is not just a "baby sitting service."

Councilmen favored adopting the state pension plan over keeping a plan, with fewer benefits, from Occidental Life Insurance Co. of California. The state plan, Mayor Joseph E. Sheeks said, would add at least 13 cents to the tax rate.

The council said that, with

Fire Damages Vacant House At Cemetery

The sheriff's office was investigating today the cause of a spectacular house fire fought by both county and San Rafael fire departments at Tamalpais Cemetery last night.

Two boys were seen running from the blaze that caved in the roof of a vacant four-room house three minutes after the county department was called at 10:27 p.m. A San Rafael Fire Department report said they boys appeared to be in their teens.

The first alarm was received by San Rafael at 10:22 p.m. Three city units were sent, two of which aided in fighting until additional county trucks arrived. A total of eight units were at the scene. Operations were directed by County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

Firemen restricted the blaze to the house, which has been vacant for 15 years, according to county fire department. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

The building at the west end of Fifth Avenue is on property of Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, just outside San Rafael city limits.

EXECUTIVES ATTENTION!

Here is a luxuriously furnished home for lease to a successful man. Two bedrooms, den, two baths, separate dining room, complete electric kitchen and laundry room. ## Cuban Refugee Family Arrives In Mill Valley To Begin New Life

By LOREN MacARTHUR

Ramon R. Montalvan of Camaguey, Cuba, sent his son and daughter to Miami 10 months ago as refugees. He didn't know when, or if, he would see them again.

Last night he, his wife Flora, and the children immigrated to Mill Valley. They carried with them only their clothes and a sense of relief because they are together again and free.

Speaking through interpreter Asa Butterfield of Sausalito, Mrs. Montalvan said today they had made the difficult decision to send away 15-year-old Flora and Ricardo, 13, after learning the children would soon be forced to attend youth Communist indoctrination camps, one known ominously as the Mountain.

For six months, the only communication Flora and Ricardo had with their parents was letters kept painfully brief and non-committal. Flora, who attended school during her stay in Miami, said: "If I write what I think, I am afraid they go to jail."

Two months ago Mr. and Mrs. Montalvan obtained visas and arrived in Miami. They are in Mill Valley through sponsorship of Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish in Corte Madera, the third Marin church to offer financial aid to Cuban refugees.

BUSINESS OWNER

The parish has already received several job offers for Montalvan, who owned a contracting, welding and lathing business in Camaguey. The family moved into the upper floor of a large and airy duplex at 15 Homestead Avenue, furnished by church members.

The bounty for the Montalvans' departure from Cuba was their entire material possessions, including two cars, furniture (shipped, they believe, to Russia), and the business Montalvan had built up.

A piano they attempted to move to friends was intercepted and confiscated.

"It doesn't matter if you are rich or poor," said Montalvan. "They take the cattle and the cars. They take it all."

CASTRO SUPPORTERS

The Montalvans' farewell committee was a government bureaucrat who arrived at their home and demanded they plug in every electric appliance to make sure they hadn't smuggled the motors to friends.

It was a sad end, said Montalvan, for the revolution they had believed in and supported when it started.

Rev. Tod W. Ewald, pastor, offered the Montalvans, who are Roman Catholic, a crucifix and a prayer book in Spanish. "Their denomination doesn't matter to us," he said. "This experience will do us more good than it will them. Unless you give religion away, you don't have it."

Capsized Boat, Body Found

A fishing tragedy in the Pacific Ocean off Dillon Beach came to light today with discovery of a wrecked boat and the body of one of its former occupants.

Fishermen sighted the wrecked craft a short distance offshore this morning. A little later, they sighted a floating body.

A boat crew from Lawson's Landing in Dillon Beach recovered the body of Fred Christensen Jr., 41, of Santa Rosa.

Christensen left this morning with a companion, identified only as Espindola, for a fishing trip offshore. No trace of Espindola was discovered.

Boats were pressing a search this afternoon for the missing man. The Coast Guard was asked to also send a helicopter.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

No Compassion For Marilyn

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Triumphant Lee Remick had no compassion today for castoff Marilyn Monroe.

Blonde Miss Remick replaced Hollywood's No. 1 glamour girl in a new movie yesterday when 20th Century-Fox Studios fired Marilyn Monroe and sued her for $500,000 for breach of contract.

The studio's legal action was based on the actress' repeated absences from "Something's Got to Give" during the past two months.

"I feel Marilyn should have been replaced," said Miss Remick, 10 years younger than the 35-year-old blonde blockbuster. "I don't believe actors should be allowed to get away with that kind of behavior."

"It's a business anyway, despite all the glamour. Other people get fired from their jobs for behaving the way she did."

Franco Tightens Grip

MADRID (AP) — Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centers hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

U.C. Space Lab Looms

BERKELEY (UPI) — The National Space Agency today was reported preparing to spend $2 million for a space research and education center at the University of California's Berkeley campus.

University officials said the contract is in the final stages of negotiation.

The new space sciences laboratory will be in the Berkeley Hills, just east of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory. The director, Dr. Samuel Silver, said as many as 150 graduate students may be working at the laboratory for advanced degrees.

The space sciences laboratory has been in existence for more than two years under Silver's direction, but its 50 researchers have been using laboratories all over the campus for their projects.

Liquidation Starts

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Federal Dist. Judge R. E. Thomson has ordered the sale of a daily newspaper and a farm implement company owned by Billie Sol Estes.

The two properties are the first of the Pecos, Tex., financier's many enterprises to be put up for sale since he placed his fertilizer, cotton and grain storage empire in voluntary receivership on April 7.

Judge Thomson said Friday the Pecos Daily News, founded by Estes in 1961, will be sold at public auction Monday from the doorway of the newspaper's one-story, white stucco building in Pecos.

Free World Losing

CHICAGO (AP) — The free world is losing the cold war, evangelist Billy Graham told an overflow crowd of about 45,000 persons Friday night at the 10th rally of his Chicago Crusade for Christ.

Speaking about communism as one of the giants faced by youth today just as David faced Goliath long ago, Graham said: "There are some people who tell you we are winning the cold war. Well, don't you believe it."

"During my travels all over the world, I have seen communism infiltrating on every continent."

Despite heavy rain and storm-filled skies, Graham drew a capacity crowd.

Durantes Adopt Girl

BURBANK (AP) — Comedian Jimmy Durante and his wife, Margaret, adopted a 6-month-old girl, Cecelia Alicia, Friday. "What a feeling it was when the judge said, 'The baby is yours,'" said Durante, playing it straight for one of the relatively rare times in his life.

"What a wonderful feeling! I just started shaking." Durante, 69, and Mrs. Durante, 42, were married Dec. 14, 1960.

OAS Destruction

ALGIERS (UPI) — Commandos of the Secret Army Organization (OAS) today put the torch to another school and a villa in Algiers despite heavy security measures designed to stop the European terrorists from carrying out their "scorched earth" campaign.

Burned down were a primary school in the European district of Bab-El-Qued and a villa. Both were empty and there were no reports of casualties.

Cole Porter 70

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., (UPI) — Composer Cole Porter, quietly celebrated his 70th birthday today at his country home on rustic Buxton Hill.

Porter arrived late yesterday. Traditionally he spends many weekends here during the spring, winter and fall.

Show business and society celebrities threw a birthday party for him last night at the off-Broadway Orpheum theater. But he sent his regrets on not being in attendance.

More Nuclear Blasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States detonated the 15th in its series of nuclear tests near Christmas Island in the Pacific yesterday.

The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) said the weapon dropped from an airplane, was of intermediate yield. This meant it had a yield equal to about 100,000 tons of TNT.

Automation May Come To Medicine In Marin

Even medicine is feeling the impact of automation, and Marin doctors and medical workers will find out how at a conference tomorrow at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael.

The meeting, called the "Marin County Conference on the Computer and Medical Information," will open at 10:15 a.m. It is being financed by a $2,000 state grant to the Marin County Health Department.

Computers, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer, make possible fuller recording and analyzing of medical information. "The purpose of the conference is to explore the possibility that Marin County could serve as a model to demonstrate how a total medical community might benefit from the utilization of new electronic data processing techniques," she said.

The idea is for a central bureau to receive, record and analyze all data.

"What is a Medical Community?" will be discussed at the 10:15 a.m. session by Dr. Michael J. Moore, professor of public health at University of California. Dr. Edward M. Lewis, senior engineer of Fair, Isaac and Co., will speak on the question, "Is the Computer Ready for Medicine?" Dr. Gerson Jacobs of Terra Linda will speak on "The Medical Information Problem." Dr. Joseph J. Arons will welcome the delegates on behalf of the Marin Medical Society.

A 12:30 p.m. lunch session will be addressed by Dr. Ralph W. Gerard, professor of neurophysiology at University of Michigan.

Windup of the conference will be an afternoon panel discussion on the feasibility of a cooperative reporting effort utilizing electronic equipment.

Members of the panel will be Drs. Duval B. Jacobs, C. West Churchman, Merrill M. Flood, Ralph W. Gerard, Edward M. Lewis, Moore, Albrecht, Arons and Jacobs.

Judge On Vacation

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court will be on vacation for about a month, beginning next week.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court is filling in on the superior court bench to help Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. Judge N. Charles Brusatori, who was released from the hospital this week, is recovering at home.

Woman Accused Of Shoplifting

A Marinwood woman was arrested last night for allegedly shoplifting clothing from Macy's Department Store in San Rafael.

Booked at the county jail on a charge of petty theft was Delores Helen Christiansen of 236 Cobblestone Drive. She was placed under citizen's arrest by a female store detective, said police. Kenneth L. Aukerman, assistant store manager, said she tried to get away with a shopping bag full of women's clothing worth $27.91.

OLD MUSICAL INSTRUMENT COMES BACK

Revival of interest in playing the recorder, a musical instrument of Elizabethan times, sparked Leo Christiansen of Sausalito, Marin Chapter president of the American Recorder Society, to arrange recorder seminar which is under way this weekend in College of Marin music room and art gallery. La Noue Davenport of New York will be soloist in public concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the college's Olney Hall, concluding the recorder weekend. Christiansen is shown playing bass recorder. Seminars will be held tomorrow at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. (Independent-Journal photo)

Ex-Marin Couple Fete 50 Years Of Marriage

Peder I. Pedersen and Sigrid Halvorsen met in the Norwegian Methodist Church in Oakland in 1911. Both were from Norway. Pedersen from Arndahl and Miss Halvorsen from Numendahl. They listened to church services in their native tongue and, in 1912, were married in the same church. Tomorrow, the couple who lived many years in Southern Marin, will celebrate their golden wedding at the home of their eldest son, Clifford, at 11 Mann Drive, Kentfield. The Pedersens now live in a cottage at Bethany Home, Tur-

Redwood Empire Tour Inquiries Up 63 Percent

Inquiries about travel in the nine-county Redwood Empire are up 63 per cent this year, President Jack Craemer of the Redwood Empire Assn. announced today. In the key "spring quarter" of March, April and May — when most travelers choose vacation trips—a total of 4,805 individual inquiries were serviced at REA's headquarters. This compares to 2,875 in 1961, which in turn was up more than 250 per cent over 1960, largely due to inauguration of REA's first advertising program. In the three 1962 months, the association sent out 92,177 pieces of literature describing its area's attractions and those of its communities, to individuals in every one of the 50 states and a host of foreign countries, and to auto clubs and travel organizations. Publicity about the Redwood Empire in metropolitan newspapers and national magazines, plus pictorial ads about the nine counties in Sunset and Westways magazines, generated the record flood of inquiries.

lock, where Pedersen, 83, swims every day in a nearby canal and swings a croquet mallet. Mrs. Pedersen, 82, and less athletic, crochets.

The former ferry boat captain and his wife, once a homesteader with her sister in North Dakota, reared six children. They will all be present for the celebration, along with 16 grandchildren.

The youngsters are Clifford; Edgar H. Pedersen of Tiburon; Mildred Pedersen Hall of Elk Grove; Ruth M. Pedersen, a missionary who has flown from Venezuela to attend the anniversary; Robert Pedersen of San Francisco, and Amy Twinning of Pittsburg (Contra Costa County).

Both Clifford and Edgar have the rank of captain from the Merchant Marine. Clifford is partner in Clipper Yacht Co. in Sausalito and Edgar works for Red Stack Towboat Co. of San Francisco.

Also attending the celebration will be Mrs. Agnes Nerheim of Oakland, Mrs. Pedersen's bridesmaid.

Pedersen went to sea from Norway at 16. He worked on Southern Pacific ferries as deck hand between Oakland and San Francisco in the early 1900s.

The Pedersens moved to Sausalito in 1924, to Mill Valley in 1926, where they lived until 1942 when they moved to San Francisco. They have also lived in Oakland and two years in Belveron Gardens before moving to Turlock eight years ago.

For many years Pedersen worked the ferries as a captain between Sausalito and San Francisco, retiring when the ferries retired in 1942.

Fifty years ago Pedersen went into the hills and gathered some beautiful greens for the wedding occasion. The greens turned out to be poison oak. The bridegroom developed a painful rash. The bride was immune.

More or less landlocked in Turlock, Pedersen and his wife came to the Bay Area once a month. Pedersen was most interested in the return of the little ferries between Tiburon and San Francisco.

WILLIAM J. SLATTERY
Honored by Army

Ex-I-J Aide Is Named Top Soldier

A former Independent-Journal newspaper carrier, Pfc. William J. Slattery, has been chosen "Soldier of the Month" from a field of 1,500 men of the Eighth Army in Korea. He received a $100 savings bond.

Slattery, 22, is a member of the Eighth Army Honor Guard. He has been stationed in Korea for 17 months. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Slattery, live at 115 J Street, San Rafael. He has 10 sisters and brothers, one of whom, Steve, is serving in the Air Force in North Dakota. Both brothers attended College of Marin and Marin Catholic High School.

While an I-J carrier, Slattery was selected "Newspaper Boy of the Month."

Now serving a three-year enlistment in the Army, Slattery is due to return to the United States Monday.

Slattery was a member of the Special Troops Rifle and Pistol Team and received two medals and a trophy in Eighth Army competition.

ACLU GUEST SAYS:

Freedom's Worst Enemy Is A Passive Citizen

By PAUL MILLER

Every man should—and has the right to—stand up and be counted.

Rev. John G. Simmons believes this enough to risk his life in declaring and practicing it. As a result of a recent television plea for racial integration he made in Southern California, the Simmons family home was bombed.

Since the incident, the ordained Lutheran pastor, who now is administrator of Pacoima Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles County, has become even more emphatic of the importance of freedom and of individual rights. And for his outspoken ideas he continues to be harassed. Last Thursday, after speaking at the Beth El Jewish Temple in Hollywood, he was sent a threatening note by the United States Nazi Party.

Tonight, Reverend Simmons will address the annual meeting of the Marin Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union at the Roger Kent Estate in Kent Woodlands at 6 p.m. He will discuss "Can Freedom Protect Its Enemies?"

Simmons maintains that the enemies of freedom are men who have wrapped themselves in "the cloak of the flag and the cross." He says that these enemies seem "more dangerous than they really are because free men are baffled as to how to deal with them."

Simmons labels enemies of freedom in three categories: the citizen with subversive thoughts, the authoritarian extremists, and the citizen who is neither the friend nor the enemy of freedom.

"The greatest enemy of the three is the citizen who refuses to think or act for freedom,"

Fairfax Pastor Will Leave For New York And New Life

Tomorrow will be the last service in the pulpit of the Fairfax Community Church for Rev. Jack Biersdorf.

He and his family will be honored at a reception in the social hall of the church at 3 p.m. before proceeding to New York, where he has a scholarship to study for his doctorate in psychology and religion. His first year will be spent at the Rusk Institute in New York in the area of clinical training. His second year will then be as a student at the Union Theological Seminary in New York.

Reverend Biersdorf graduated from the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley in 1957. He was an assistant pastor at the Orinda Community Church until called to be the minister of the Fairfax Church in May, 1958. He is a native of Spokane, Wash.

He was chairman of the recent Inter-Faith Conference on Peace at the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary in Strawberry.

His successor as pastor has not been announced.

PENTECOST SUNDAY

Bishop To Visit Holy Innocents'

On the Feast of Pentecost, tomorrow Rt. Rev. James Albert Pike, Episcopal Bishop of California, will make an official visit to Holy Innocents' Episcopal Parish, Corte Madera.

The bishop will attend two services, at 9:30 a.m. and at 11 a.m. The latter will be a Solemn Pontifical High Mass, with Dr. S. Drummond Wolff, Minister of Music, directing the chancel choir in a Gregorian Mass setting, announced Rev. Tod Ewald, rector.

At the latter service, candidates will be presented to Bishop Pike for the ancient rite of Holy Confirmation. Those to receive the Laying on of Hands are:

Christopher Anthony Evans, George John Hagstrom, James Donison Irey, Steven Kent Irey, Gregory Thomas McCormick, Jewett Hampton Terry, James Knowles Wasley, James Raynor Whiting, Richard Lyle York, Mary S. Cain, Elizabeth S. Herbert, Kathleen Teresa Hodge, Janet Christine Howard, Diane Marilyn Johnson, Karen Jana Tegeler, Christina Lee Terry, Elizabeth Jane Tyler, and Joyce Elaine York; to be received will be Grace Annette Lozier.

A reception at the close of Mass will be held honoring the newly confirmed, as well as the bishop. Hosts will be members of St. Edward's Guild.

Trinity Lutheran Will Celebrate Pentecost

Pentecost Sunday will be celebrated tomorrow, with the reception of 21 young people as communicant members at Trinity Lutheran Church of San Rafael by the solemn rite of Confirmation.

The rite will take place during the 10:30 a.m. service of Holy Communion, announced Rev. Fred C. Braunschweiger, pastor.

The majority of the young people have received four semesters of religious training conducted by Rev. Braunschweiger. The course included a Bible study, a presentation of the teachings of the Lutheran Church, a study of church history, and an application of religion to life.

The class includes Karen Berner, Nancy Carter, Jeff Craemer, Kathy Harnell, Barry Hassan, Randy Hericourt, Pam Johnson, Carolyn Kutlik, Nancy Loeber, Dennis Sabraw, Geraldine Sabraw, Lauri Schlichtmann and Linda Schmiedeberg all of San Rafael; Richard Deffen, Victor Guider, Danny Lezen and John Storz of San Anselmo; Dave Bradley of Ross, Steve Schreiber of Kentfield, Ernie Bergman of Mill Valley, and Jimmy Kenney of Belvedere-Tiburon.

This will be the first class to be received in the new church located at 333 Woodland Avenue at the end of "B" Street in San Rafael.

The Marin County assemblies of the Bahai' World Faith tomorrow will sponsor a picnic and meeting in celebration of Race Amity Day at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The object of the 1 p.m. affair is to bring together persons of all races and to promote friendship among them, said Mrs. Florence Haake, a member of the San Rafael assembly. She said from 75 to 100 persons were expected to attend.

The picnic's 2 p.m. speaker will be Mrs. Adrian Reeves, secretary of the San Jose Assembly of the organization. Tomorrow's affair will be open to the public, said Donald L. Phillips, of the Novato Assembly.

Amulets are articles made or found in a natural state which are thought to possess religious properties.

New Members Receive Communion Tomorrow

Ten young people will be received into communicant membership of Marin Lutheran Church, Corte Madera, through the Sacred Rite of Confirmation at 11 a.m. tomorrow, announced Rev. Gerald W. Garland, pastor.

"Your Greatest Joy" will be the pastor's sermon theme. Greeting the class for the congregation will be Milton Frick, chairman of the Board of Education, and Robert Andre, class president, will give the response. The class will have their first communion at 7 p.m.

Members of the class who have completed the two-year course of study in preparation for confirmation are Carla Amundson, Robert Andre, Robert Bartram, Michael Duff, Helen Hart, James Michaelson, Walter Nagel, Larry Pool, Ronald Theisen, and Paula Wensloff.

At 8:30 a.m. a festival service in observance of Pentecost will be held at Marin Lutheran. "The Power That Works Wonders" will be the pastor's sermon theme.

Protective Role

In ancient times, the bridegroom carried his bride over the threshold to protect her from evil spirits that were believed to be hovering there. When a husband does it today, the custom is a sign of his new protective role as head of the household.

Martin Seavers Fete Scouts From Japan

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Seavers of Mill Valley entertained 11 Japanese Senior Girl Scouts and their leader, Mrs. Akiko Mishima, Sunday at the start of their three-month stay in the United States. The group of young women were chosen from the 12 Girl Scout councils in Japan and are sponsored cooperatively by the Experiment in International Living and the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., with their expenses being paid by the Girl Scout Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. It is the first time members of the Association of Japanese Girl Scouts have visited this country. The group will spend a month together in Casper, Wyo., and then will separate to visit families in Alaska, Texas, South Dakota, Tennessee, and several other states for two weeks. Mrs. Mishima will visit in Michigan during that time. Before flying home from San Francisco on Aug. 31, the Japanese Scouts will visit Washington, D.C. and New York. Their visit to Marin was highlighted by a trip to Muir Woods where they were given a personally conducted tour by the rangers. Members of Senior Girl Scout Troop 255, the Marin International Friendship troop, helped entertain the visitors at the Seaver home where they initiated the visitors to American hamburgers and potato chips. Mrs. Mishima was a friend of the Seavers during their stay in Tokyo. She comes from an old Scouting family, as her grandfather, a friend of Lord Baden-Powell, founded the Boy Scouts of Japan, and her father continued in Scouting and is known as Japan's No. 1 Boy Scout. Hirako, her daughter, is one of four Japanese Girl Scouts chosen to come to the United States in July to attend the Senior Girl Scout Round-up at Button Bay, Vt.

Ransom-Loftus Nuptials Held In San Anselmo

At a patio wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Taveggia of San Anselmo Sunday afternoon Harriette Murtion Loftus became the bride of Lester Marvin Ransom. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, George Tustin Murtion of Sierra Madre for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. A. Bryce Sidebotham of San Francisco. The bride chose a turquoise chiffon over satin dress for the nuptials. Her daughter, Mrs. Francette Stevens, was matron of honor, wearing an orchid organza dress. Best man for the bridegroom, who is area supervisor of Mendocino County, Division of Parks and Beaches, was James Thoburn of Sonoma. The bride, a coloratura soprano, is known for her work as a concert artist on stage and radio and in opera and light opera productions. The couple will live in Mendocino County.

Noted Norwegian Couple Visits With William J. Dawsons

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

A distinguished Norwegian couple, Professor Doctor Ingeald Reichborn-Kjenrud and his wife, Dr. Astrid-Marie Reichborn-Kjenrud, arrived Friday to visit their long time friends, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dawson of San Rafael. The Dawsons will be hosts at a reception tomorrow afternoon honoring their guests. Attending will be professional people and world travelers for the most part. Augusta and William Dawson have traveled extensively and made lengthy stays in Europe where they met the Norwegian couple 12 years ago.

Professor Ingeald Reichborn-Kjenrud is director of the dental department of the University of Oslo, in Norway. He and his wife gave courses all over the world. He is here to give a course on orthodontics at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. He will give lectures throughout the United States before leaving for Norway in about a month. His wife will spend the summer with the Dawsons at their San Rafael home and at their summer place at Snow Shoe Flat on the Feather River in Plumas Co. With the visitors is their son, Ted, 9, who will go to summer camp in Sonoma County with the Dawsons' grandson, Bill Dawson.

DR. ROBERT C. TAYLOR of Ross has been invited to present a paper at the first international Conference of Oral Surgery to be held in London in July. Mrs. Taylor, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Marin County Dental, will accompany her husband to England and they'll go to Germany after the conference.

Charles Royces Home From Trip To Golden

Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Royce and their son Michael of Novato have returned from Golden, Colo., where they attended the graduating ceremonies for their son, Charles A. Royce, who received a degree of engineer of mines on June 1 at the Colorado School of Mines. The new graduate and his wife and infant daughter, Beverly Anne, returned to Novato with the senior Royces.

Churchwomen To Hear Talk By Decorator

Dorothee Farber, San Anselmo interior decorator, will be the speaker at the first summer program for women of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Greenbrae ward. It will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. Members and friends are invited to attend. Luncheon will be served.

They'll leave the end of June and be away three weeks.

MRS. ROGER DARROW entertained at a luncheon and bridge party Wednesday at her San Rafael home. Covers were laid for 16 friends.

MRS. NEWTON E. WISE of Little Reed Heights honored Mrs. Richard Macfarlane at a morning coffee party Thursday. The Macfarlanes are building a home in Del Mar Estates. Gert and Dick Macfarlane have been away from Tiburon for several years because of business transfer. First they were in Hawaii. Dick was transferred from there to San Jose and he and his wife have been living in Los Altos for the past years.

Guests at Mrs. Wise's party were Mesdames Lowell Airola, Harold F. Green, Raymond Menzel, Virgil Hollis, John Renak, James McCormick, Charles Bigelow, Churchill Simonson, Erik Rettig, Chan Rybinski and Craig Guilbert.

MRS. CHARLES F. COOKE of San Anselmo is enjoying a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Frances MacGregor, who flew from the east, arriving today and will spend the summer with her. Mrs. MacGregor is professor of social science at Cornell Medical Center. She and her mother toured Europe together last year.

LE BAL DU MANNEQUIN tonight at Peacock Gap Golf and Country Club will be preceded by several cocktail parties. Guests at the John Hackney home (she is president of the Mannequin League, sponsor of the party) will be David Fogel; he is superintendent of Juvenile Hall which will benefit from Le Bal, a dinner dance; and Mrs. Fogel and Messrs. and Mesdames Gordon Darnell, John Maxson, Marshall Foster, Jim James, Eugene Holmstrand, James Coleman, Jack Coleman, Douglas Christensen and Pete Robichaud. Also entertaining will be Mr. and Mrs. William Donohoe who will have as guests Messrs. and Mesdames Edmund Coyne, Walter Coyne, Conrad Abbott (who are flying up from the south), James Decker, Rex Golobic, William Larson, Robert Prichard and Lucien Sabella. Another group will be entertained by Dr. and Mrs. John Jansheski.

GAIL NOAH, daughter of the Ralph Noahs, was hostess at a luncheon at her Belvedere home today before the ballet aquacade. Gail, a freshman at Redwood High School, will have as her guests five classmates, Roxie Taft, Kris Phlegger, Connie Atterbury, Carol Sinclair and Kathy Wilson.

8 Hurt In Early Hour Car Mishaps

Eight persons were injured early today in traffic accidents, two of which occurred on Highway 101 near the Corte Madera overpass.

Four men were hurt in a single collision one-half mile south of the overpass at 2 a.m., said the California Highway Patrol. One of the motorists was arrested on a felony drunk driving charge.

Involved were northbound cars driven by Timothy C. Ryan, 21, of Berkeley, and Stanley Di Ri, 26, of 207 First Street, San Rafael.

Officers said Di Ri had just topped the grade when his car was hit from behind by Ryan's car. Di Ri's car was hurled off the roadway and 150 feet down an embankment. Di Ri was thrown from the vehicle. He suffered a cut left hand.

Ryan, who suffered a cut lip and bruised chest, was booked on a charge of drunken driving involving bodily injuries, but was released on his own recognizance to appear in court Monday.

Passengers with Di Ri who also were hurt were James Flindland, 24, of El Cerrito, who suffered face cuts, and Carl Reiner, 40, of Albany, who had a cut on his chin.

Reiner, dazed by the accident, wandered about for four hours, finally walking to a service station not far from the scene. An attendant called authorities. All four men were treated at Marin General Hospital.

SLOW TRAFFIC

Another rear-end collision at 2:30 a.m. about a mile north of Corte Madera overpass involved cars driven by Donald Spencer Briese, 36, of 555 Wisteria Way, San Rafael, and John Moore Thomas, 45, of 8 Edna Court, Kentfield.

Briese told officers he had just reached the top of a hill when he saw flares and slowing cars ahead as the result of another accident. He said he braked and swerved into the inside lane, but hit the rear of the Thomas car.

The impact hurled the Thomas car across the divider strip and into the opposite traffic lanes.

Briese's wife, Jacqueline, 34, was thrown against the windshield but refused medical treatment.

Thomas was treated at Marin General Hospital for a bruised chest.

SIGNAL DAMAGED

A traffic signal damaged in an earlier accident at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and La Cuesta Drive resulted in another collision at 2:20 a.m., highway patrolmen said.

Kenneth Almeron Frost Jr., 17, of 145 Bayview Avenue, Belvedere, who was northbound, had the green arrow signal for a left turn. Otto Karl Bullwinkel, 51, of 118 Laurel Drive, Fairfax, thought he had the green light to proceed west on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Their cars collided.

Bullwinkel was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts on his chin and left knee and a bruised forehead.

Officers said two of the four signals on the intersection were inoperative because they were damaged in an accident at 1:15 a.m.

Frances Moder, 39, 106 Broadmore Street, San Anselmo, received a bruised chest in a two-car accident on Highway 101 just north of the Marin County line. She was a passenger in a car driven by Martin Moder, 53, of the same address.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Moder's car and another driven by Floyd Keiser, 79, of Alhambra, were both headed north when Keiser changed lanes, cutting in front of Moder. Mrs. Moder was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Marin Youths Win Graduation Honors

Four Marin scholars graduated with honors from San Francisco State College in commencement exercises this morning.

Graduating cum laude were: Gertrude S. Mueller, 1035 Las Pavadas Avenue, San Rafael; Carl G. Nehm, 424 West Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, and Judith Polacchi, 29 Shell Road, Mill Valley.

They were among 90 cum laude graduates receiving bachelor degrees.

Gabriel Raab Jr., 20 Corte Patencio, Greenbrae, was one of 17 earning masters degrees to receive special honors for scholastic achievement.

The Marin scholars were among a total of 1,830 receiving degrees in ceremonies at the Cow Palace. It was the largest class in the college's history.

Board Hears Critics Of Incorporation

More testimony will be required before Marin County Supervisors will decide whether petitions for incorporation of Tiburon are legal.

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon to study possible improper preparation of the petitions, the board found nothing wrong. But just to make sure, the supervisors will ask Kelly J. Wheeler of Tiburon, who was in charge of circulation of petitions, to tell them in his own words how the final petitions were put together.

Bryan R. McCarthy, attorney for incorporation opponents, said the petitions had suspicious-looking staple marks and folds, indicating they might not be in the same forms presented to persons who signed them.

He referred to a court case in Berkeley in which petitions were ruled invalid because prefaces to the petitions were torn off before they were filed with the county clerk.

McCarthy showed the board how it was done by ripping up pages from a scratch pad and holding the fragments up to the supervisors' view.

John P. Eichorn, chairman of the incorporation committee, called McCarthy's protest a "diversion intended to stir doubt in the public's mind."

Eichorn said the petitions were carefully handled. He said they were re-stapled after removal from blank paper folders. The gathering of petitions was supervised, he said, by Wheeler, who acted on advice of Leland H. Jordan, the committee's attorney.

County Counsel E. Warren McGuire said the petitions had not been altered as in the Berkeley case but "only the supreme court" could decide whether the re-stapling was illegal.

"Everybody — the opponents and proponents — will be happier if we ask for direct testimony from Mr. Wheeler," Supervisor Peter H. Behr said.

The board set for Wednesday and Thursday final hearings on incorporation boundaries. Both hearings will begin at 8 p.m. and they may be continued into the following week.

McCarthy said owners of nearly 47 per cent of total valuation are now against incorporation.

proposed approval of the state plan, they did not see how they could also give employees a 1.6 per cent cost of living pay increase.

Present library tax is 21.5 cents operating tax plus 5 cents for building fund toward purchase of a new library site. The new rate would be 25 cents operating and five cents for building fund.

The proposed library budget is $61,490, or $9,000 over the current year. Increase would include $3,760 for 3,000 books and $1,900 for new equipment. It was noted this is the same number of books purchased each year, but books have gone up in average price from $2.79 to $3.92 a piece the past two years.

The summer recreation program is nothing but a "baby sitting service," said Councilman Michael Wornum.

"My wife brought our three children down to a school last year and they were all getting clay to model. It was a menace of flying clay," he declared.

He also objected that the city did not take Mill Valley youngsters first, then those outside of Mill Valley. "The city is paying for it," he said. "When we ask them to be annexed to the city, they say it is too costly."

"I couldn't agree with you more," said Mayor Sheeks.

The council directed City Manager A. E. Almcraants to implement their ideas on the program.

32 Peace Pickets Held After Everyman 1 Trial

The protest against nuclear testing, which originated in Marin County with the constructing of a three-hulled boat, came to a climax yesterday with arrest of 32 demonstrators in the San Francisco Post Office Building.

Demonstrators have picketed the building all week during the trial of the crew of Everyman I. The three crew members were arrested May 26 after sailing from Sausalito for the U.S. test area near Christmas Island.

The three were found guilty of contempt of federal court and sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday afternoon. Shortly after Judge William T. Swigert of U.S. District Court pronounced the verdict, the demonstrators also found themselves on the way to jail.

The pickets are charged with obstructing the U.S. marshal in the performance of his duties.

"It is not a pleasant thing to send people to jail, but they have had nine days to demonstrate their sympathy and now they are insisting on a right to take over the building," U.S. Dist. Atty. Cecil Poole said.

After the trial of the three crewmen ended, many of the demonstrators were carried out of the building. They marched around and entered by another door to again take their places in the hallways. That's when they were arrested.

They were so pleased on hearing the news of their arrest, that they all agreed to get up and walk into the police wagons.

Among those arrested was Dennis Crain, 19, of Mill Valley, a student at College of Marin. Other Marin residents took part in the week-long demonstration, but he was the only one at the post office at the time of the arrest.

Crewmen of the Everyman I were Edward Lazar, 27, New York City; Harold Stallings, 30, Menlo Park, and Evan D. Yoes, 30, Berkeley.

After sentencing them, Judge Swigert issued a restraining order to prevent the Committee for Non-Violent Action from sailing anymore ships to the test area.

However, Everyman II in Honolulu, is reportedly all set to sail Monday for Christmas Island. Dr. Monte Steadman of Corte Madera is one of the three men who will sail the boat. His son, Brian, 18, a student at Lick-Wilmerding High School, was among the demonstrators this week but he was not arrested.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Sol Blum Dies On Trip

Mrs. Loella Blum, a longtime resident of Marin, died this morning in Nevada while on a vacation trip to Lake Tahoe and Nevada with her husband.

Mrs. Blum, of 145 King Street, Larkspur, had suffered a lingering illness for three years.

Before her illness, she had been active in church work in St. Patrick's Catholic Parish in Larkspur. She gave active support to the San Anselmo Baseball Club during the time her son, Ronald Blum, was a member. Blum is now with the Kingsport, Tenn., farm team of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mrs. Blum, a native of San Francisco, moved to Larkspur 19 years ago.

She leaves her husband, Sol Blum; a son, Ronald; two daughters, Mrs. Bernice Monistere of Larkspur and Mrs. No-reen Graves of Cupertino; three sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Grubb of San Francisco and Mrs. Juanita Poirier and Mrs. Frances Williams of Larkspur and six grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the James H. Riley Mortuary in San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held Monday for Gaylon L. Welchon, a San Rafael typographer, who died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness. He was 59.

Services will be at 10 a.m. at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Welchon worked for the Trade Pressroom in San Francisco and had been a member for 40 years of San Francisco Typographical Union 21.

He had resided 12 years in San Rafael at 31 Curtis Avenue. He was a native of Missouri and a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Rita, a daughter, Mrs. Audrey Depetris of Calgary, Canada; a brother, Bernie H. Welchon of Mill Valley, and five grandchildren.

ELIZABETH MUNCH

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Munch of San Rafael, former proprietor of an Oakland catering business, will be held Monday at 3 p.m. at Chapel of the Chimes in Oakland.

Mrs. Munch, who was 85, died Wednesday in a local hospital after long illness.

In recent years she had made her home with her nephew and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Falvey, at 233 D Street, San Rafael.

She was a native of California and a member of Oak Leaf Chapter 8, Order of Eastern Star, in Oakland.

The Eastern Star chapter will conduct the funeral services. Friends may call at Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael until noon Monday.

NELLIE S. GRAY

Private funeral services will be held Sunday for Mrs. Nellie Strickley Gray, mother of John S. Gray of Larkspur.

Mrs. Gray, 95, died today in a San Francisco hospital where she had been ill for the past eight years.

She was a native of England and came to Salt Lake City, Utah, when she was 3 years old. She was the widow of attorney John Gilbert Gray. He died in 1908.

Mrs. Gray was a frequent visitor to the home of her son at 441 Holcomb Street. She is survived by him and two daughters, Mrs. Louis F. Paddison of Auburn, Mass., and Sister Gertrude Mary of the College of Holy Names in Oakland.

Interment will be in Salt Lake City. Directors in Oakland are John Jay Cox Piedmont Mortuary. The family requests tributes be contributions to Norte Dame Hospital in San Francisco.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's no joke when the Los Angeles Dodgers say that Maury Wills might steal the National League pennant for them this season.

Exhibit A today for any "doubting Thomases" is the simple fact that the little, fleet-footed shortstop "stole" first place for the Dodgers in a 13-inning, 4-3 victory over the Houston Colts last night.

With 32 steals in approximately one-third of the season, Mercurial Maury is posing the most serious challenge in history to Ty Cobb's major league mark of 96 steals during the 1915 season.

Wills "broke it up" last night after receiving a leadoff 13th-inning walk from Don McMahon of the Colts. He promptly stole second and third bases and then scored the winning run on a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis. The victory vaulted the Dodgers into first place, a half-game ahead of the San Francisco Giants, who lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-4.

Larry Sherry, the Dodgers' 1959 World Series pitching hero who had fallen on hard times the last few years, gained his fourth win of the season.

Sherry, who entered the game in the ninth inning, has won or "saved" six of the Dodgers' last 18 victories.

The New York Yankees, more noted for their slugging, retained their one-game American League lead over the Minnesota Twins when they downed the Baltimore Orioles, 1-0, for their third straight shutout. Yankees pitchers now have hurled 28½ consecutive scoreless frames.

Jim Coates, who replaced Whitey Ford in the second inning, yielded only one hit during the last eight innings to win his fifth game. Bobby Richardson, atoning for two errors in the field, singled home the winning run off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm in the eighth inning.

The Philadelphia Phillies routed the Cincinnati Reds, 10-

3, and the New York Mets ended their 17-game losing streak with a 4-3 decision before dropping a 3-2 verdict to the Chicago Cubs in other National League games.

Phil's rookie Dennis Bennett pitched a four-hitter and Don Demeter hit a two-run homer for the Phillies, who sent the Reds down to their fifth loss in a row. Johnny Klippstein suffered the loss for Cincinnati.

Jay Hook, who halted an earlier nine-game Mets' losing streak, scattered 10 hits for the victory that ended the longest 17 games of Casey Stengel's 50-year career in baseball, but the Cubs bounced back to win the nightcap on Ron Santo's two-run eighth-inning single. Cal Koonce went seven innings to win his fourth game for the Cubs in the nightcap.

Top Golf Tourney Planned Here; Ex-Pro Stars Join Marin League

Still in the planning stage—a Marin invitational Golf Tournament next September featuring the county's finest amateurs plus a dozen or more of Hollywood celebrities.

Proceeds would go to the Marin Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Main hurdle right now is securing use of one or two of the county's private courses.

Tentative plans call for inviting the top 10 or 15 players from each of Marin's golf clubs plus other top amateur stokers from northern California. The Hollywood celebs, some of whom have already guaranteed to appear, would serve as window dressing to assure large galleries.

OLD PROS never die, they come back to play semi-pro. Bob Nelson and Bill Enos, who saw considerable professional ball experience in their younger days, both advancing as high as Triple A classification in the Pacific Coast League, will play for Billings-Hutchinson Builders of San Rafael in the Marin Semi-Pro League.

If memory serves correctly, Nelson caught for Sacramento and Enos outfielded for the Seals. Both potent stickers.

The semi-pros also tried their level best to sign former big leaguers Sam Chapman (Athletics), and Art Schallcock and Joe DeMaestri (both Yankees), but apparently without success.

HEAR TELL San Rafael High's versatile star Jack Sovereign, after recently pitching a no-hitter in semi-pro, nixed a lucrative pro offer in favor of attending U. of Oregon where he'll play football and baseball.

THAT OLD pea-picker Tennessee Ernie Ford and his TV show announcer, disc jockey Jim Lange, are among the entries in the Meadow Club's popular invitational golf binge next weekend.

Ex-Yankee Joe DeMaestri.

OL 'GORGEOUS' GEORGE TAKES ON HIS WIFE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Wrestler Gorgeous George took on his wife as an opponent after he'd had a few drinks, she testified in getting a divorce yesterday.

A witness at her Superior Court trial said she wound up with two black eyes as the result of her last non-professional bout.

Judge Leonard A. Diether granted Mrs. George, 33, resumption of her maiden name, Cherie Dupre, which she uses as a dancer and actress.

George, 47, is now a San Fernando Valley tavern owner and is having a struggle getting started in his new business, his wife testified. So she's waiving alimony. They'll have joint custody of their 2-year-old son.

Mrs. Prydz Captures North Bay Tourney

Mrs. George Prydz of Mill Valley Golf Club fired an 82 yesterday to win low gross honors in the North Bay Women's Golf Assn. tournament at Santa Rosa.

Several members of the Indian Valley club of Novato won net honors in the handicap play. They were:

Class A—Mrs. Roy Sayles, second, 91-46-75.
Class C—Mrs. R. G. Cornelius, 104-27-77 and Mrs. Torc Bedayan, 104-27-77.
Class E—Mrs. Joel Hamby, 108-31-77, first; Mrs. Rowe Waller, 110-32-78, second; Mrs. George Kerrigan, third, 118-35-82.

MARIN SEMI-PRO PROSPECTS

S.R. Loaded With Talent

By RALPH CHATOIAN
(Last in a series)

A team bristling with all-county players to get the base hits and strong pitching, the Billings-Hutchinson squad of the Marin Semi-Pro League will prove hard to beat.

Billings-Hutchinson manager Joe Anselmo calls the Ongaro Plumbers of San Anselmo "the team to beat." Then the former San Jose Red Sox ball player adds, "But if hustling youth and determination will win, we've got it."

The San Rafael building team has played three practice contests and have won all three. One of those victories was a no-hit, no-run game thrown by Jack Sovereign against the Benecia Merchants.

Sovereign tacked up 20 strikeouts in that 1-0 win. It's no wonder he may pull the starting role in the Billings-Hutchinson opener against the San Anselmo Merchants tomorrow in the Hub City.

In the other two practice games, Billings-Hutchinson won over the Santa Rosa Elks, 10-8, and the San Francisco Indians, 10-6.

The San Rafael squad has four right-handed pitchers and two lefties. Sovereign is the right-hander who will be used quite a bit. The chucker played football, basketball and baseball at San Rafael High and is now planning to enroll at Oregon University. And, needless to say, the scouts are after him.

Fred Thurman is another right-handed pitcher on the team and is a veteran of the semi-pros. He has some pitching in the Western-International League behind him to add to his experience.

Mike Osborne and Dan Fitzgerald are the other right-winged hurlers. Osborne played for College of Marin and can roam the outfield.

Fitzgerald formerly played for Santa Clara University. Also a first baseman and third sacker, Fitzgerald will be used mainly in the infield because of his hitting ability.

Bob Ostaggi is a left-handed pitcher and outfielder who can hit well. He has played at College of Marin and may well get a call to take the mound during the season.

Art Quinn, although the club's regular first baseman, can also pitch. He will get his share of base hits, fresh from batting .370 this past season with USF.

The second base, shortstop and third base spots will all be occupied by all-county high school athletes. On second base will be Rich Curry, a former all-county second sacker from San Rafael High, a real good fielder.

Jerry Smith will hold down the shortstop position. He made the all-county team this year at champion Marin Catholic High. When the regular MCAL season came to a close, Smith was batting at a blistering .471 clip.

Terry Jarcik, all-county from Redwood High School where he batted .360 this past season, will be the third sacker.

The centerfield spot will be taken by Jerry Daniele who earned all-county recognition this year from Terra Linda High, and who is described by Anselmo as "probably the best high school outfielder in the county." Daniele, as a junior, hit above the .500 mark.

Mike Bresnan is a lefthander and catcher who hit .471 with Fresno State this past season.

Bill Gallagher is their aggressive hitting rightfielder. The former Drake High baseballer recently finished playing at University of San Francisco.

He led the USF team this year in average, .379; total hits, 36; extra base hits, 16; total bases, 61, and runs-batted-in, 22. He also had an impressive .642 slugging average, hit 11 doubles and scored 18 runs.

Bob Nelson, former catcher for the Sacramento Solons when they were in the Triple A Pacific Coast League, will be the number one receiver for Billings-Hutchinson.

Other catchers will be Roy Giusti, all-county from Redwood High where he batted

.470 this year, and Joe Hebel, catcher for Marin Catholic this past season.

Ron Stirling, from College of Marin, will be a utility man on the team who can be switched from the infield to the outfield.

Helping out Anselmo will be coach Frank Reagan.

The commissioners for the Marin Semi-Pro League are Romolo Brusati of San Rafael, chief; Harry Perlis of Mill Valley and Frank Quinn of San Anselmo.

Play Ball! League Openers Tomorrow

It's "Play Ball!" tomorrow for the new Marin Semi-Pro Baseball League with games scheduled at Mill Valley and San Anselmo.

Manager Bob Selna's Mill Valley Merchants host Bob Johnston's Ongaro Plumbers of San Anselmo at Optimist Field, M.V., 1:30 p.m. while Joe Anselmo sends his Billings-Hutchinson Builders against Pete Maggi's San Anselmo's Merchants at the Hub City's Memorial Park, 1 p.m.

The new league will present two games each Sunday through Aug. 19.

Managers today announced their starting lineups as follows:

BILLINGS-HUTCHINSON—Rich Curry, 2B; Art Quinn, 1B; Jerry Daniele, CF; Dan Fitzgerald, 3B; Bill Gallagher, RF; Mike Bresnan, LF; Bob Nelson, C; Jerry Smith, SS; and either Jack Sovereign or Fred Thurman, P.

SAN ANSELMO MERCHANTS—Wayne Lettlinger, SS; Larry Kline, 2B; Gary Rodgers, 3B; Ken Gelatti, RF; Bob (Chico) Ingram, CF; Mike Quinn, LF; Steve Anderson, 1B; Ed DeMaestri, C, and Russ Honeyman, P.

ONGARO PLUMBERS—Dick Schultz, 2B; Tim Riordan, 1B; John Brookman, 3B; Lou Campredon, C; Mike Telegin, P; Bob DeRosa, LF; Al Bovee, CF; Mike Congdon, RF, and Fred Pfeffer, SS.

MILL VALLEY MERCHANTS—Jim Lucas, CF; Fred Shotwell, 2B; Don Palasia, RF; Dave Perlis, P; Mike Wyman, SS; Sandy Slack, 3B; Ed Kemp, 1B; Fred Mack, C, and Guy Robinson, LF.

Elsewhere, the Tiburon Pelicans take on the Gino Benedetti club of San Francisco at Judge Field, Tiburon, 2:30 p.m., and the newly formed Novato Tigers, sponsored by Detroit Tiger scout Nick Kobseff of Nicasio, play their first game at Healdsburg.

His big opposition, Arnold Palmer, was way out of the running and old Sam—50 on May 27—had only himself to worry about. His six under par 66 yesterday gave him a 36 hole total of 136, two strokes up on U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Dave Marr and 40-year-old Earl Stewart.

Palmer had a 74 for 147 yesterday and barely survived when the field was cut to the low 96 pros and four amateurs who shot 149 or better.

MAN TO BEAT

Snead now is the man to beat for the $25,000 top money, richest purse of the year, but Littler, particularly, was regarded as a threat.

Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., had a 68 yesterday for 139 and five others were bunched at 140—Buster Cupit, Wes Ellis, Frank Boynton, Dow Finsterwald and Gay Brewer, the first day leader who slipped to 74 after an opening 66.

Recreation District Annexes Schools

The Terra Linda Recreation District this week annexed the Marindale and Santa Margarita schools to the district.

In other action during its regular meeting, the district board voted to hire a full-time maintenance man for the new community center and park. Richard T. Conzelmann, director of recreation, said the post should be filled by July 15.

The board will discuss and adopt its yearly budget during its next meeting, June 20.

Goodall Wins On 2-Hitter In Hub Loop

Two-hit pitching by Gary Goodall and two double plays propelled Jacopi Meat Co. into a 2-1 victory over Guasco Super Markets last night in the San Anselmo Senior League.

Guasco pitcher Larry Peet allowed only four hits, striking out 13, while Goodall struck out 12 and batted .667. A double play in the sixth by shortstop Don Schlag to second baseman Phil Haring to first sacker Jim Johnston wiped out a Guasco threat. In the seventh Johnston caught Al Berryhill's liner and doubled Paul Bridges off first for an unassisted twin killing to end the game.

Giants Eye Trade Mart

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Trying to keep pace with those wide awake Los Angeles Dodgers is a problem no major league club would want — especially San Francisco's Giants, who are now studying the trade market for some possible deals.

The Giants, who appear to be embarking on their usual June slump, dropped an 8-4 decision last night to the St. Louis Cardinals for their third loss in a row. Only once before this season had Alvin Dark's men lost as many in succession.

But the Dodgers, who lately seem to be winning 'em when the Giants are having troubles, took over first place last night with a 4-3 win over Houston's Colts in 13 innings.

The Giants fell out of the National League lead for the first time since April 30.

The lead could change hands again today, however, when the Colts host Los Angeles again and the Giants face the Cardinals here.

The Giants sent Jack Sanford (6-4) to the mound against Ray Sadecki (2-3).

Meantime, Giants Vice President Chub Feeney says there's a chance San Francisco may trade or purchase before the June 15 deadline. Feeney said last night that the Giants are in the market for a pitcher or pitchers and a utility infielder.

SCRATCH DODGERS

"I haven't talked much with the Dodgers," he said, "so you can scratch them from your guess list."

Willie Mays and Willie McCovey both smashed homers for the Giants last night but that's about all San Francisco could boast about. The Cards, who stretched their winning streak to four, collected 14 hits off loser Juan Marichal and reliever Don Larsen.

Cards Ken Boyer and Bill White each blasted homers and drove across three runs apiece and Boyer's three-run clout in the fifth broke a 3-3 tie and capped a four-run inning.

Lindy McDaniel retired the last eight Giants in order after relieving winner Bob Gibson in the seventh.

Brunch Tomorrow For Li'l League Benefit

A brunch to benefit the Strawberry-Tiburon Little Leagues will be held tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Bel Aire Market parking lot.

Arrangements for the annual event are being made by the Tiburon Little League committee, according to Charles Estudillo, chairman.

Denny Moyer Is Favored Over Wright In TVer

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight contender Denny Moyer is favored at 9-5 to beat Teddy Wright tonight at Madison Square Garden and avenge the defeat of brother Phil Moyer two weeks ago.

The Denny-Teddy 10-round, a substitute fight, will be televised nationally by ABC at 7 p.m. (PDT).

Denny of Portland, Ore., and Wright of Detroit were originally slated to fight at the Garden on May 26; but baby-faced Denny, 22, suffered an ear infection. Brother Phil, 23 and also a middleweight, substituted for Denny and was outpointed by Wright, 8-2, 5-4-1, 6-3-1.

Denny is favored because he is the sixth-ranking middleweight contender, fast and smart, whereas Wright, 25, is the sixth-ranking welterweight contender.

Graduates Could Aid World By Avoiding Six Mistakes

We are glad that high schools in our area consider that commencement exercises are important.

The events mark a major change in the life of the students; they testify to the awareness and the attention of the community to its schools system, and they spotlight the achievements of our youths.

At this time of year, it is usual for speakers to point a path for youth's future, to challenge them to make the world better and to excite them about the things that they can accomplish.

Some 20 centuries or so ago, a Roman statesman, Cicero, listed what he called the six basic mistakes of man. Today, in the 20th Century, if our young graduates could take these mistakes to heart they could indeed do much to make a better world for us all. The six are:

1. A delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others.
2. The tendency to worry about things that can not be changed or corrected.
3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we can't accomplish it.
4. Refusing to set aside trivial preferences.
5. Neglecting development and refinement of the mind and not acquiring the habit of reading and study.
6. Attempting to compel other persons to believe as we do.

Graduates, please note!

Bouquets And Brickbats

A BIG BOUQUET to Rev. S. R. Hammond, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Glenwood, on the conclusion of 51 years as an active Episcopal minister and upon his retirement.

BRICKBATS to voters or others who stole flags from in front of polling places in Mill Valley, Marin Yacht Club and elsewhere.

BOUQUETS to San Rafael High students and teachers for an interesting and enjoyable Creative Arts Festival. And BOUQUETS too to other schools and groups which are each year adding more and more to the fine arts opportunities in the county.

BOUQUETS to this year's Redwood High School graduates, the first class to complete a full four years at the new—and already outgrown and enlarged—institution.

BOUQUETS to A/1c John F. Heitsch and S. Sgt. Ray M. McClure of Hamilton Air Force Base, back home in Marin after their exciting rescue of Astronaut Scott Carpenter from his rubber raft in the Atlantic.

BOUQUETS to the 300 or so youngsters from 5-year-olds to high schoolers who take months of their time each year to put on the Ballet Aquacade, this weekend for the 17th year.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Assembly, Congress Incumbents Tough To Beat In Our Districts

By CHAPIN A. DAY

'CHIP' DAY

Half the fun of a primary election is trying to figure out what the results mean. Take our own Assembly and Congress races for example. In neither one did the party candidates have opposition in their party. Therefore, about the only thing you can do is speculate in the comparative showings.

One thing emerges right away—if the challengers are going to unseat the incumbents they have their hands full!

Here are the unofficial totals as we have them to date, still without absentee ballots added in and, in the congressional race, about 25 precincts still missing, not enough to be significant:

For Assembly: William T. Bagley (R, incumbent), 37,686; Robert D. Carrow (D), 31,491.

For Congress: Clem Miller (D, incumbent), 69,608; Don Clausen (R), 59,103.

IN THE CONGRESSIONAL race Miller is working with a six county district which is 52.99 per cent Democratic, 44.34 per cent Republican, with about 6,500 other registered voters tossed in. There were 128,755 Democrats and 107,753 Republicans in the district for the primaries.

Miller attracted a vote of 54 plus per cent of the registered voters in his party, while Clausen turned out 53.9 plus per cent of his. Thus Miller had a 10,500 vote edge.

Clausen has his work cut out for him.

THERE ARE EVEN more available figures for comparison in the Assembly race. Neither party has a clear cut registration majority in the Marin-Sonoma district. It is 49.2 per cent Democratic, 47.83 per cent Republican, with the remaining voters registered miscellaneous parties or decline to state, plus 12 Prohibitionists.

Bagley pulled 57 per cent of the registered Marin County Republicans; 77% per cent of the Republicans who voted for him. But there were nearly 6,000 Marin Republicans who did not mark Bagley's name.

Carrow, in Marin, pulled 45% per cent of the registered Democrats and got a 70% per cent vote from those who cast ballots. But here too, 6,300 Democratic voters who voted failed to support him.

The "no vote" voter was particularly noticeable in comparing Carrow's and Miller's vote. In Marin, 2,200 Democratic voters who supported unopposed Miller failed to support unopposed Carrow. In Sonoma, there was the same number who withheld Carrow votes. But of course Miller is the incumbent.

Such a comparison isn't as important in the Bagley race, where he, as an incumbent, was able to tally from 800 to 1,000 more in each county than his congressional race-mate Clausen.

IN SONOMA County, the election bureau hadn't segregated the total number of Republican and Democratic voters, so a comparison similar to Marin's is not quite possible. However, by using the total votes for all party candidates for governor in Sonoma, this picture emerges:

Bagley tallied 54 per cent of the registered Republicans in Sonoma and a whopping 88 per cent of the Republicans who cast ballots for governor. Carrow was supported by 44% per cent of the registered Democrats; he got 75 per cent of the Democrats who voted for governor.

Clearly Carrow has an uphill battle ahead.

OH YES, ONE MORE brief election return. Charles L. Frankel, who owns the Commodore Helicopter Service at Sausalito, was nominated by San Francisco Republicans for the Assembly. But don't dust off his seat yet.

He totaled 4,801 Republican votes as compared with 13,973 Democratic votes amassed in the same district by Democratic incumbent Phil Burton.

HIS ERROR WAS MONUMENTAL

An 86-year-old man had "1961" inscribed on his tombstone as the year in which he would die. The only trouble was, 1961 came and went, and he remained very much alive.

The man explained that he always thought he would live to be 86 because that was the age at which his father had died.

Undismayed by his error, the old-timer began search for someone handy with stone-cutting instruments. This time he wanted the date changed to 1967.

Not many would be so confident of the future as to bank on the date of their death.

INTEREST WITHHOLDING PLAN Flood Of Letters Show Grass Roots Opposition

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—No matter what kind of tax bill the Senate passes this year—if it passes one—nobody's entire savings account will be taxed at a rate of 20 per cent.

The tidal wave of mail pouring into Capitol offices these days has reflected this fear, among others, and has presented every conceivable argument against the President's proposed withholding tax on dividend and interest income.

Without a doubt, the deluge of letters has made Senators and the President aware of considerable grass-roots opposition to the provisions. But whether or not it has changed earlier Senatorial views of the need for withholding is another question. If it has, the bill could be in trouble in the Senate.

AT HIS PRESS conference, the President attempted to allay the fears of large segments of the population. He accused savings and loan institutions of misinforming many millions of people in a campaign against the withholding proposal.

Many Democratic Senators have joined him in the view that the institutions have organized a mass mail campaign against the withholding provision in an effort to defeat the bill, which contains another provision increasing taxes on savings and loans institutions.

Some Senators even say the flood of mail may backfire, and merely demonstrates the need for the withholding techniques to get at heretofore unreported funds.

THE PRESIDENT said the campaign had led to four basic misconceptions: that the proposal involved a new tax or tax increase, that it would take money unjustly from honest taxpayers, that it would create a highly expensive "mountain of red tape," and that it would unjustly hurt the elderly, widows, orphans and others in low income groups.

The fact that some of the letters received indicated an ignorance on the part of many people that they are already required to pay taxes

But, whether it comes sooner or later, come it will.

While a preoccupation with life's end can be unhealthy, it is reasonable and necessary occasionally to reflect on the hereafter.

Be willing to sacrifice your ease and comfort now as a preparation for the last day. Whatever you do to make life better for your fellow man will stand you in good stead when you stand before the divine Judge.

"You yourselves know well that the day of the Lord is to come as a thief in the night." (1 Thessalonians 5:2) Concentrate my thinking and my conduct, O Christ, more on how I die than when.

will owe no taxes or will be eligible for refunds. Officials estimate the cost to the Government would be only three percent of the additional revenue generated by the withholding plan.

The cost to financial institutions would be more than offset by the interest they could earn by retaining withheld funds for periods up to four months before paying the Government, and they would not be required to itemize the taxes withheld, proponents say.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

CHARLES BROWER, of Batten, Barten, etc., warns eager young account executives that if they had courted their wives the way they court prospects, their patter would have sounded something like this: "I can see you are a smart girl; the kind that can't be fooled on value. So you'll notice that I am wearing a $300 suit. That suit, Girlie, is only an outward indication of the super-hydraulic, synchro-mesh, patented double-action heart that beats beneath it. Now listen carefully to something I tell only a chosen few. I am in limited supply. There are a lot of women after me. So for one day only, I'm offering to marry you. But you'll have to hurry—hurry—hurry—before I'm all gone."

When a raucous customer proposed his seventh consecutive toast to Honolulu, Bartender Clancy paused to inquire, "Say, Buddy, you come from Hawaii?" "No," said the customer, "but my wife's flying there tomorrow."

It's Wyatt, Not Wat, Who's Going To Be Central Marin Bureau Chief

I'm not going anywhere; I'm still going to cover the courthouse beat; I've never had a first wife, Hazel, and I'm not going to be doing the reporting around Larkspur-Corte Madera-Kentfield.

If you got the impression from Thursday's Reporter's Notebook that I am going to be doing those things, I don't blame you. I became a little confused myself.

But what happened was that some gremlin in the backshop put my by-line and picture on the column when he should have put in Fred Wyatt's picture and by-line.

Wyatt is the Central Marin bureau chief now, not Wat.

THEY'RE JUST about ready to make a pitch for a salary raise for sheriff's deputies.

Right now, a Marin deputy starts at $420 and works up to a maximum of $506. (With longevity, it eventually goes to $530.) Of the nine Bay Area counties, a Marin deputy's top pay ranks No. 6, behind Alameda ($613), Contra Costa ($584), Santa Clara and San Mateo ($581), and San Francisco ($543). Below Marin is Napa ($505), Sonoma ($492) and Solano ($481).

From all indications, the sheriff is trying to get his deputies a top pay of something like $580 per month.

Their argument is that this raise will still leave Marin right smack in the middle of the nine bay counties, especially since some of the other counties also will be raising salaries for the coming year.

You can expect a quite of bit discussion on this starting next week.

JUST DOESN'T seem possible that Nicasio Lake, just filled last year, has already grown rainbow trout up to seven pounds. But as we get it, a 7-pounder was hauled in a couple weeks back. One explanation is that it must be steelhead that was landlocked when the new dam was built.

THE WEATHER thermometers atop San Rafael City Hall have been accused of being off the beam. But the latest report is that the city's weather equipment is only four-tenths of one per cent off.

This assurance comes from Administrative Assistant Chris Christiansen, who had government testers check the equipment.

That percentage of error is pretty darn good, says Chris, considering that a one per cent error is considered more or less normal.

So the next time the city hall weather observer tells you it's hot, you can rest assured it IS hot. Don't fight it; it'll only get you hotter.

INSPECTOR HARVEY Teague of the sheriff's juvenile bureau knows what he's talking about when he tells the youngsters that hard work and study pay off.

Teague just got back from a 12-week graduate course at USC, where he pulled a B-plus average, including three A's, and nothing below a B.

She's coming to live in Marin.

Western Aid To Nasser Allows Him Funds For Soviet Arms

WASHINGTON—From all the information I can gather, there is reason to view with alarm President Nasser's mounting acquisition of Soviet arms and our indirect role in helping him.

I am not suggesting that Egypt should be denied American aid because Nasser wants to remain an unaligned neutralist; I am not suggesting that the U.S. should not give assistance to a country which also gets aid from the Soviet Union.

This is not the problem. This is not the reason I feel we must view where Gen. Nasser is heading with new concern and take a fresh, hard look at what we are doing.

What is happening is:

NASSER is acquiring a formidable, ominous, aggressive—not defensive—military arsenal from Moscow.

To pay for these arms, he is imperiling still further all prospect that his regime can solve its economic and social problems peacefully within the existing boundaries of Egypt.

American aid to Egypt just about equals the resources which Nasser is diverting from Egypt's internal needs in order to purchase new and large-scale arms from the Soviets.

It seems to me that this trend of events presents a dangerous picture—and a dangerous potential. The least we can do is to re-examine our part, however indirect, in bringing it about.

OBVIOUSLY the Egyptian-Soviet arms traffic cannot be calculated precisely. But

10 YEARS AGO

Agreement between Northwestern Pacific Railroad and the city of Mill Valley for removal of tracks and right-of-way into the city was announced by Mayor Harrison Leppo. This was to lead to beautification of Miller Avenue.

there is a variety of informed sources and, by cross-checking them, it is possible to make a careful computation. It is no overstatement to say that Egypt put approximately $68,000,000 into Soviet military equipment in 1961. The figure will go to $85,000,000 in 1962. A total of $145,000,000 will be spent for modern, complicated Soviet weapons to be delivered during the next two years.

All of this is in addition to Soviet arms delivered to Egypt before 1960.

As a result of these Soviet deliveries, Nasser has announced he is doubling the number of army divisions from three to six, two of which will apparently be armored divisions.

THE PRICE-TAG on Soviet arms, delivered and contracted for from 1961 through 1964, is estimated at not less than $298,000,000. This is 60 per cent of the estimated market value. Egypt pays on long-term loans at 2 per cent.

Over this period U.S. and International Monetary Fund will contribute to the Egyptian economy an amount equal to, perhaps even greater, than Nasser is withdrawing from his economy to buy these weapons.

This looks like an uneconomic, unproductive, unhealthy, and undesirable enterprise.

Recent Market Darkness Was Not A Black Tuesday

By DAVID L. BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

An ominous comparison hung stubbornly in news stories last week as the stock market dipped abruptly on Monday, May 28.

As few commentators overlooked, the size of the day's plunge, 13.4 on the AP average of 60 stocks, was the greatest since Oct. 28, 1929. The 9.3 million shares traded during the slide Monday was the fifth greatest since Black Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1929. Happily for today's investor, the volume soared to 14.7 million, second highest in history, the next day as the market quickly recovered most of the ground it had lost.

If restricted to bare statistics on movement and volume, the crack in the market last week can be compared to the crash of 1929. But when the comparison is broadened to take into account the changes of 33 years the see-saw last week fades in comparison to the hell-bent slide of 1929.

Among relevant differences is the size of the market then and now. Hectic as trading was last week, it fell far behind the 1929 pace as a proportion of total shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The reason for this is that the number of shares listed then came to only 1.1 billion, as against more than seven billion now.

On Black Tuesday turnover on the big board soared to 16.4 million shares, a record which still stands.

As a percentage of shares then available to be traded, this came to about 1.5 per cent. In contrast, the 9.3 million shares traded on the steep fall May 28, figures out to less than two-tenths of 1 per cent of the more than seven billion shares now listed.

Black Tuesday saw the life savings of thousands of families wiped out and it heralded one of the worst and longest depressions in U.S. history. The reasons for both the bust and the subsequent business depression were many and complex, but among the prime causes for the stock market catastrophe was speculation.

Almost everything about stock trading in the 1920s seems fantastic in today's light. The Federal Reserve System's easy money policy in the mid-1920s encouraged the use of credit in speculation. Later it tried to correct this but it was too late. The public borrowed at the high rates and went on gambling.

Stock trading crossed the three million shares a day mark in 1925, quickly climbed over four million and then five million. Customers' men at brokerage firms grew careless in advising about purchases, and many member firms joined the pools to push up prices of certain stocks and then unload them.

When a broker did urge his customer to use caution, he usually lost the speculator to another broker who catered to any buying whim.

The crash and its aftermath brought on controls intended to prevent such a thing from ever happening again. In May 1933, Congress passed the Securities Act which requires public disclosure of facts bearing on worth of securities.

The Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 outlawed misrepresentation and manipulation of securities, curbed the activities of corporate insiders dealing in stocks of their own company, set rules for soliciting proxies, clamped down on activities of brokers and dealers.

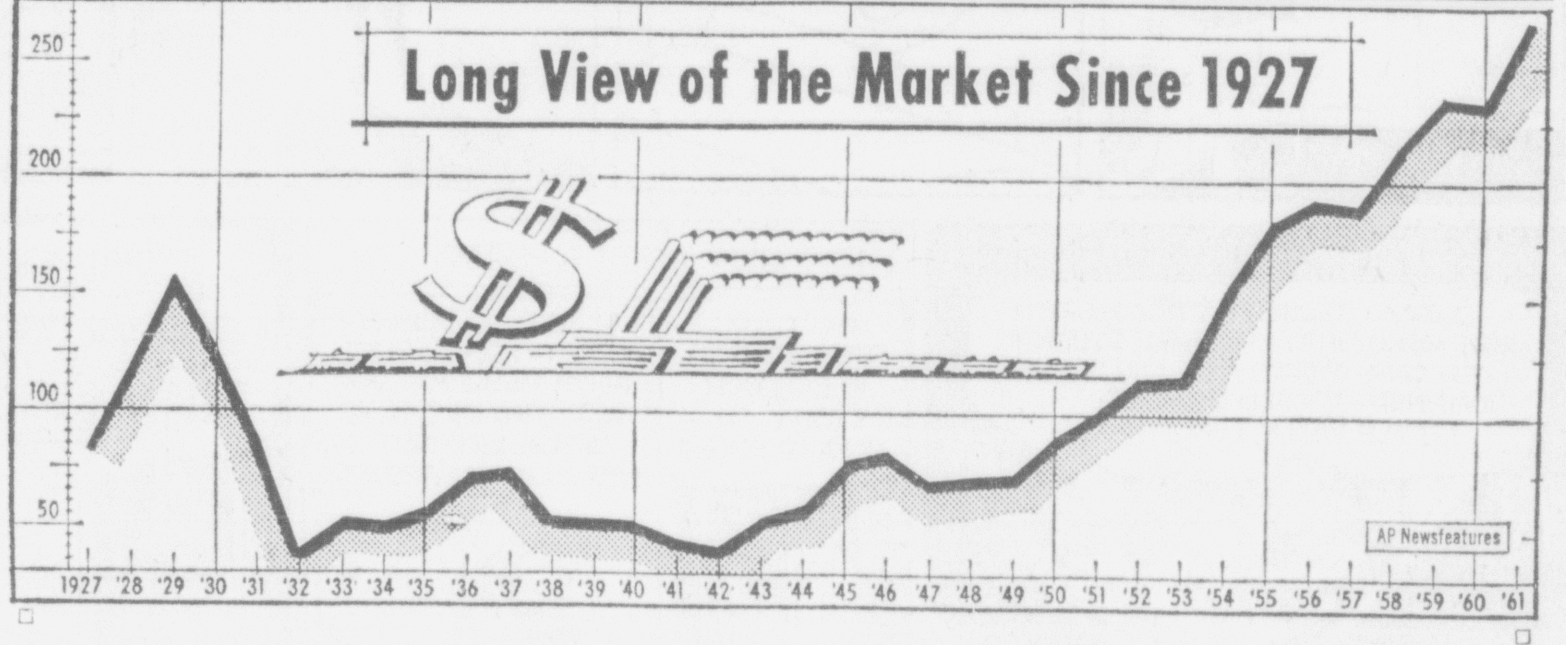

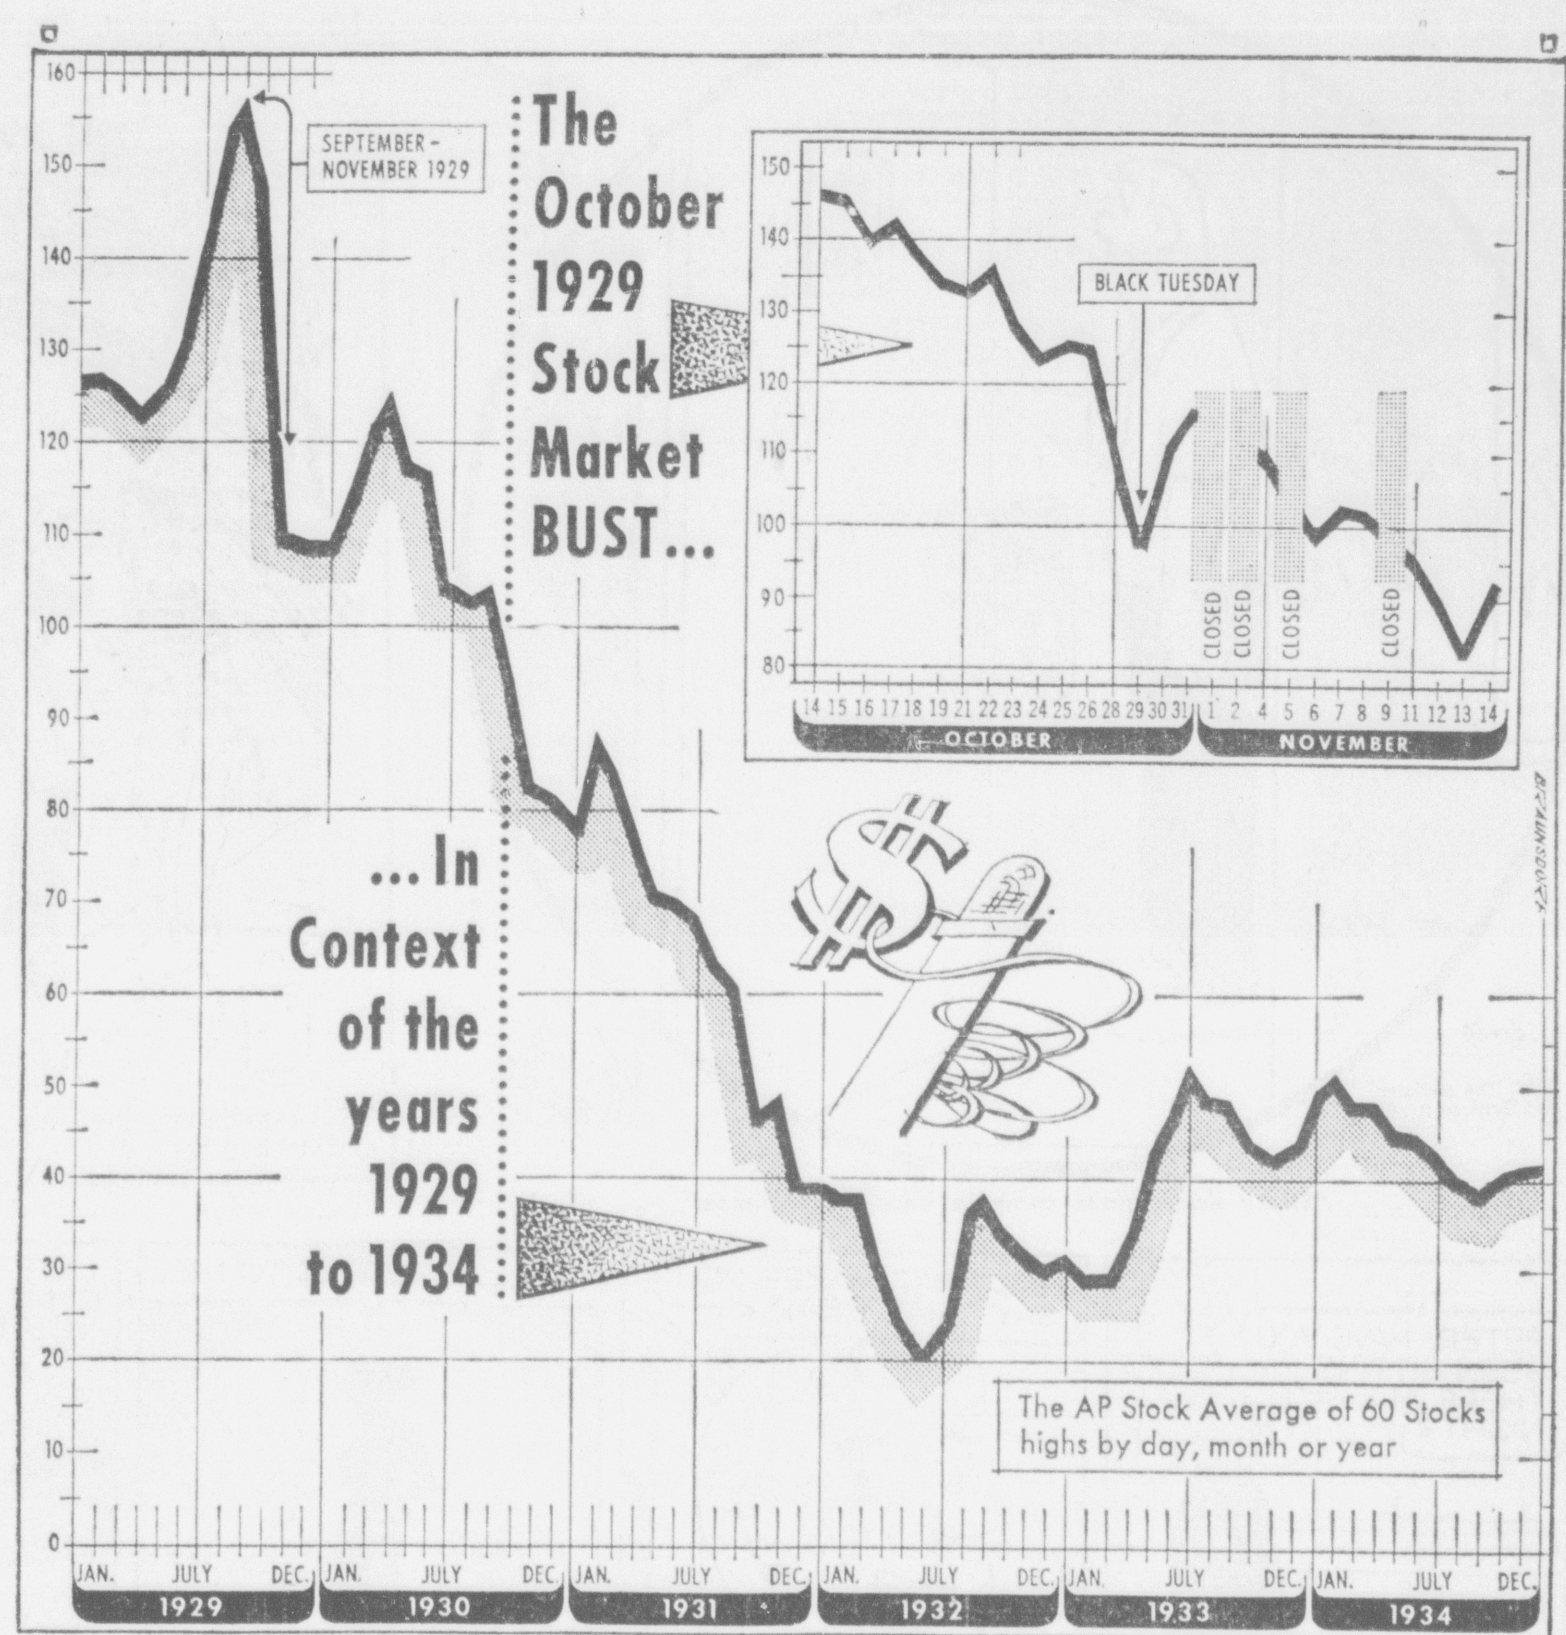

Congress set up the Securities and Exchange Commission to police this. SEC demands full financial information from corporations before new stock issues can be offered. It can call brokers and dealers on the carpet and even revoke their trading privileges. It watches over the activities of insiders and over the issuance of proxy statements.

In 1935, the Public Utility Holding Co. Act brought utilities under regulation. In 1939 the National Assn. of Securities Dealers brought over-the-counter dealers under supervision.

The Federal Reserve Board can raise or lower the margin requirements to meet conditions bearing on how much buying of stock on the cuff seems good for the economy.

Along with these policing activities, today's market benefits from the big share of outstanding stocks held by institutions—many of them, like the pension funds, unknown to the 1929 market which lacked this stabilizing influence.

But perhaps the biggest difference between the stock market today and 33 years ago is the individual stockholder himself. His ranks are much larger now. Belief is widespread that he is better informed about what he buys and that he gets into the market only after sound investigation or on sound advice.

Communists Spell Trouble For Venezuela's Betancourt

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
U.P. International

The bloody Puerto Cabello uprising of the past weekend, second anti-government revolt in a month and third in a year, may well mark the end of an era for Venezuela's embattled President Romulo Betancourt.

Betancourt has governed through a series of crises the past three years with the full backing of the Venezuelan military. For the first time since Venezuela became a republic, the military not only has tolerated but failed to interfere in civilian government.

Now, for the first time, Betancourt may have to reckon with military demands that he crack down once and for all on the instigators of Venezuela's terrorism and subversion—the Communist Party and pro-Castro leftist political groups and parliamentarians.

Following last month's revolt at the naval base of Carupano, staged by Venezuelan Marines but planned and promoted by the political left, Betancourt banned the communist revolutionary parties from all political activity.

But he stopped short of outlawing them altogether and thus allowed their representatives to remain in congress and enjoy parliamentary immunity from arrest.

The Communists, backed by the Fidel Castro regime, make no bones about their ambitions.

Speaking in congress a few days after the Carupano uprising last month, Communist deputy Eduardo Machado said: "Here (Carupano), the war started. It has just begun.

"The first stage is that the people will not put up any longer with this government and will rise up against it with what they have at hand: clubs, rocks, gasoline; arms that are still primitive . . .

"The second stage will come when we disarm the reactionary part of the army . . ."

It is in the face of this kind of talk that the military may call on Betancourt to act.

The enigma Betancourt now faces is summed up in the interrogation:

Is the price of maintaining democratic government worth risking the very survival of that government?

WASHINGTON—What to do in case of fire and other emergencies is part of the growing up knowledge of American kids everywhere. Call the fire department, etc.

There is no common experience, however, that prepares the adult citizen for another kind of emergency that confronts Americans from time to time. This emergency develops when an American citizen is approached by a legal espionage agent of the Soviet Union with a proposition that seems to be both reasonable and harmless.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is eager for American citizens to be prepared for such an emergency.

What to do? Call the FBI. There are more than 700 Soviet and satellite officials on duty in the United States. It is estimated that 70 to 80 per cent of these officials are intelligence agents. Called legal espionage agents because they are legally in the United States.

Much of their activity, however, cannot be done legally within the restrictions of their accredited duties. Among other items, these persons seek books, pamphlets, photographs, charts, blueprints, production and training data of all kinds. When unable personally to obtain material, the Soviet agents turn to an American citizen.

The citizen may see no harm in procuring a particular catalog or company report for a Kremlin agent. The document is not secret. But unless the citizen is very careful, he may find himself soon caught in an intrigue from which he cannot escape.

"Generally," an FBI spokesman explained, "foreign intelligence agents have a motive which goes far beyond obtaining an item which is easily available to the public and probably has little, if any, significant value. A primary objective of legal espionage agents is to recruit others to do their bidding.

"They use the obvious means of exploiting Communist sympathy or ethnic loyalties. They offer financial gain. They use threats or promises where a hostage situation exists, that is, when the American citizen has a relative or sweetheart behind the Iron Curtain. They employ blackmail, too."

First Secretary Miroslav Nacvalac of the Czechoslovak U.N.

The Czech suggested that the girl could get out of Czechoslovakia if the teacher would cooperate. The teacher informed the FBI and there followed meetings with the Czech and others. The girl was allowed to leave Czechoslovakia in 1959 and now is married to the teacher.

In June, 1961, the State Department ordered Nacvalac's recall.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Two faces appeared on the political scene this week, an "old" one and a new one.

Richard M. Nixon bounced back into the active scene by trouncing Assemblyman Joseph Shell in California's gubernatorial primary.

Ted Kennedy, youngest brother of the president, won the Democratic party's endorsement in Massachusetts for U. S. senator. He defeated Edward McCormack, Jr., nephew of the House speaker, in convention balloting.

Both Nixon and young Kennedy face a tough fight. Nixon's opponent in the November general election in California will be Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown, a proven vote-getter. There are more Democrats than Republicans in California and Nixon must get some of the Democrat and Independent votes to win.

Young Kennedy's victory in Massachusetts was only symbolic. It was not official. If McCormack decides to oppose Ted, who has just turned 30, he is eligible to engage him in the fall primary. McCormack said he would enter the primary. The victor in that contest then must beat his Republican opponent in the November general election.

Both President Kennedy and House Speaker John McCormack kept out of the Massachusetts picture. But young McCormack charged this week that the Kennedy administration had interfered by promising some plums, such as postmaster appointments, to delegates who voted for his opponents.

A victory by Nixon in November would give the Republican party stronger leadership. It also would strengthen Nixon's position as a presidential nominee in 1964 or 1968.

Nixon has ruled himself out of the 1964 presidential campaign. He is only 49 years old and a term as governor of California, the state with the largest population, would strengthen his stature.

IN WASHINGTON, President Kennedy told Americans through his news conference they will get federal income tax relief next year if Congress approves. He ruled out any tax cuts at present, unless an economic situation arises that would call for a decrease.

Other major news developments:

CRASH — A chartered Air France Boeing 707 jetliner crashed on takeoff from Paris' Orly Air Field, killing 130 persons aboard. Of the dead, 121 were from the Atlanta area. It was the worst tragedy to strike Atlanta since the Civil War. Authorities still are trying to find out what caused the crash.

AID — The Senate passed a $4.3 billion foreign aid authorization. A ban against aid to Poland and Yugoslavia had been written into the bill but it was decided to permit food shipments to these Communist countries.

ALGERIA — The Secret Army Organization (OAS) resumed its violence in Algeria after negotiations with the Arabs on the future of Europeans living there failed to produce any results. In Paris two OAS were executed by a firing squad for the murder of an Algerian official.

RUSK — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he would visit Berlin later this month. The visit will be part of a European tour.

TEST — The United States' first attempt to explode a nuclear device at a high altitude failed when the tracking system broke down.

VICTIMS IN REVOLT—Bodies of three Venezuelan government soldiers lie in street in Puerto Cabello, during a bloody Communist-backed revolt. One soldier carries a wounded comrade over his shoulder. President Romulo Betancourt's government crushed the revolt. (AP Wirephoto)

West opened the eight of hearts, East put up the jack, and South won with the king. South thought that West had led from some such holding as A-10-8 of trumps, and returned a trump toward dummy.

This was just what East had been hoping for when he false-carded with the jack at the first trick.

East was now able to draw all of the trumps, after which he led the four of clubs.

West read this lead correctly as showing a high card in the suit, since otherwise East would have led some sort of high card. After winning with the 10 of clubs, therefore, West continued with the ace and queen of clubs.

East overtook to take the rest of the clubs, and South was down three.

RUN SPADES

After winning the first trick with the king of hearts South should abandon the trumps. He runs the spades, discarding a diamond from dummy on the third spade.

East can ruff the third spade and puts West in with a club for another trump lead. East

Honorary Degree For Belvedere Man

Jesse Henry Steinhart, 104 Golden Gate Avenue, Belvedere, received an honorary degree from University of California at Berkeley in commencement exercises this morning.

Steinhart, who graduated from the university in 1901, served on the board of regents from 1950 until this year. He is also a graduate of Hastings School of Law and has been a member of the California Bar since 1903.

Regent Gerald H. Hager, who presented the degree, said Steinhart is "possessed of a deep and unflinching interest in faculty welfare and the principles of academic freedom, and imbued with a spirit of tolerance and good will."

Steinhart was one of seven receiving honorary degrees at the university's 99th commencement exercise.

Estes Summoned

FRANKLIN, Tex., (UPI)—Billie Sol Estes will have a chance next Wednesday to explain his cotton allotment manipulations to a grand jury trying to determine whether Henry Marshall, the first farm official to investigate Estes, was murdered or committed suicide.

Dist. Clerk Morgan Harlan of Robertson County issued a subpoena for Estes yesterday at the direction of Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ, who has been conducting the grand jury investigation.

Ted Kennedy Wins Backing Of Massachusetts Demos

But McCormack Will Oppose Him At Polls

By ARTHUR EDSON

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Those ambitious, never-give-up Kennedys have done it again. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, eager 30-year-old brother of the President and of the attorney general, was endorsed by weary, hoarse Massachusetts Democrats last night as a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

In the big battle of famous political names, Kennedy piled up such a margin over Edward J. McCormack, 38, that McCormack gave up before the balloting was two-thirds completed.

With the score card showing Kennedy 691 to McCormack's 360, the voting was stopped.

McCormack came to the microphones, listened gratefully to the cheers of his supporters, and said:

"I want to thank all of those who had the courage to stand up and be counted in my behalf . . . I will now take my case to the people."

This means that even though McCormack lost here he will fight Kennedy again in the September primaries, a right he has under Massachusetts law.

Scarcely had McCormack left the platform than here came Kennedy, accompanied by his blonde wife, Joan, to get an even more rousing reception.

Kennedy said he was sure the people of Massachusetts will speak just as the convention delegates did.

McCormack is the nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, and waiting restlessly in the political wings is a young representative of yet a third famous family.

Election Results To Bring Schools Debate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California voters have set the stage for the sharpest debate on education in many years between now and the November primary elections.

They did it by choosing Ralph Richardson and Max Rafferty to oppose each other in a November runoff for the non-partisan office of superintendent of public instruction.

The two men are wide apart on what should be taught, and how.

Richardson, 43, is a professor of English and Speech at UCLA, and president of the Los Angeles City School Board. He thinks teachers should excite children about learning in addition to "hard core" teaching. He says affection between teacher and pupil is even more important than discipline.

Rafferty, 44, is former school superintendent in Needles and La Canada, who says he stands for "profound, basic, constructive change in our whole approach to education."

He says the "arch progressives" in the Education Department should resign, and that "fuzzy terms like social studies and language arts" should be eliminated.

Retiring incumbent Roy E. Simpson has held the office for 16 years.

ANOTHER DEBATE

Another sharp debate may take place in the Legislature.

The sound defeat of Prop. 3, the $270 million state construction bond issue, has brought demands for a special legislative session from both Democrats and Republicans, but with different objectives in mind.

Democrats want the proposition resubmitted to the voters in November. They say the voters didn't understand that most of the money would be used for college and university construction.

Republicans want a special session to trim the $2.9 billion budget already passed, so that college buildings can be financed out of tax funds. Gov. Brown has promised a decision Tuesday.

Pasture For Fire Trucks

WOODVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Old fire horses were retired to pasture—but what happens to old fire trucks?

Clarence Dewey Farrar, fire truck manufacturer, says the old ones are not always junked.

Some are sold to small towns which cannot afford a new truck in the $15,000 to $32,000 range. Others are purchased by organizations which want them for parade purposes. Occasionally an individual will buy one for summer property protection.

The average life of a town fire truck given good usage is about 20 years, Farrar says.

Baptists End Convention, Start Work On Statement Of Doctrine

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The few had new instructions from the many today.

That's the Southern Baptist way of doing things: The mass of plain believers lays down the guidelines for their institutional leaders.

And that is what happened here at the 10-million-member denomination's four-day convention.

It adjourned last night after completing reviews of its varied expanding operations and setting directions for the work ahead.

Among other things, the massed gathering of 10,600 "messengers"—from pew and pulpit—issued some stern admonitions to their seminaries on teaching theology.

And they told other agencies to be more wary doctrinally about material published.

RED THREAT

The convention also ordered a stepped-up effort to inform its members about the "threat of communism," but warned against "irresponsible use of the Communist label as an accusation without sufficient evidence."

Doctrine, however, was the main problem for this 105th annual meeting.

It aroused keen feelings, as an outpouring of Western and Southwestern conservative forces trained their fire on alleged "Liberal trends" in denominational institutions.

Generally, the criticism was that damaging interpretations of the Bible were being disseminated. The huge assembly called for a stop to this. Seminaries, publishing agencies and other branches were told to stick to "our historic position" of faith in an historically accurate, infallible Bible.

But just what this meant, in a detailed sense, was left an open question, with steps set in motion to spell it out to some extent.

Baptists have never defined their doctrine, in any standardized, binding sense, maintaining each person is free to interpret the Bible for himself.

CLASSIC CREEDS

Even so, they have for the most part clung to beliefs set forth in classic Christian creeds.

But faced with the rising friction on theological teaching and publishing, the convention decided on a project for drafting a "statement" of Baptist beliefs.

The statement won't be compulsory, but is aimed at providing a guide on any future doctrinal conflicts.

The plan was put forward by top denominational leaders, with support of the Rev. Dr. H. H. Hobbs, convention president, as an apparent effort to counter the misgivings current about denominational institutions.

But even after the plan was approved, the convention went on to rap seminaries for alleged doctrinal deviations, in some cases, and to tell them and other agencies to hew to a stricter doctrinal line.

Between Spanish rule and American stateship, seven flags were flown over Sonoma County.

Local Credit Group Worker Ends Service

Robert J. Leary of San Rafael retired last week after 45 years with the Credit Managers Assn. of Northern and Central California.

Leary, who lives with his wife at 1305 Nye Street in a home they built in the Curtis Park tract 32 years ago, worked with the Construction Industries Credit Bureau, a department of the Managers Assn. at the time of his retirement.

During his affiliation with the group Leary served as secretary or office manager for 12 industrial groups.

Leary and his wife leave June 16 for a European tour, returning via Alaska.

A Historic Mission Protected By The Angel Of Healing

The same ideal climate which today lures new residents and weekend visitors to Marin was responsible, nearly a century and a half ago, for the selection of what is now the heart of the city of San Rafael as the site for a Franciscan mission.

Actually Mission San Rafael Arcangel, founded Dec. 14, 1817, began its life as a helper mission or asistencia to San Francisco's Mission Dolores.

SAN FRANCISCO'S damper and cooler climate was taking a heavy toll of Indian converts. So the good fathers decided to set up a kind of sanitarium in warmer, dryer Marin.

The 20th link in California's picturesque mission chain, it was the second to last to be founded and second most northern in location.

Because of the role assigned the new asistencia, it was not surprising that the establishment was placed under the name and protection of St. Raphael Archangel, the angel of bodily healing.

The original building was much plainer and simpler than most mission structures. The long, low adobe structure served as monastery, chapel, hospital and storeroom. Outside the bells were hung on a wooden frame.

Father Luis Gil, a man learned in medical science, was a fortunate choice as the hospital community's first leader. And when he left after two years, kindly Father Juan Amaras took charge and led the Indians to a more industrious way of life. Workshops and a granary were built. Exploring parties headed north made the mission a stopping point. And the community grew to number more than a thousand, only a minority of them the sick from San Francisco.

As a result of this growth Mission San Rafael Arcangel was raised to full mission status on Oct. 19, 1822.

Father Amaras died in 1832 and his successor found himself in conflict with civil authorities. Consequently, the little San Rafael mission became the first of the California missions to be secularized when it was taken over by the civil government in 1833 and converted into an Indian pueblo. Gen. Mariano Vallejo was appointed its administrator and much of the property, even to vines and fruit trees, was confiscated and turned over to private ranchers.

DURING THE Bear Flag uprising Gen. John C. Fremont and his men stayed at the mission in the midst of their struggle against Mexican troops. Then in 1847, under the new United States regime, San Rafael was again attended by a priest.

But by that time the buildings were crumbling. In 1855 the mission was abandoned. For a time it housed law courts and meetings. But in 1870 the remaining ruins were cleared away for a parish church.

Of all the California missions, it was the most completely obliterated.

But there were Marinites who were determined not to let this significant heritage of their area be forgotten. In 1909 the Native Sons of the Golden West erected a mission bell sign on the site. And in the 1930s a movement for the rebuilding of the mission began to stir.

The movement for building of the mission replica was initiated by the Marin County Historical Society. Years of research were carried on and plans for the mission rebuilding were made by the eminent architect, Arnold Constable. When money for the building was allocated by the Hearst Foundation, the mission was rebuilt and dedicated in 1949.

Today that attractive mission chapel and its gift shop are open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. week days and from 8 until 1:30 Sundays after masses to the visiting public.

NEAR THE mission stands stately St. Raphael's Church. The parochial school is located on the same grounds.

The Indians are long gone. But robed fathers still walk the mission grounds. The devout still worship in the beautiful little chapel. And the angel of bodily healing still keeps a protective watch over it.

(Editor's Note: This is another in the "See Marvelous Marin" series on places of interest in Marin, prepared in cooperation with KTAM.)

THE RESTORED Mission San Rafael Arcangel on San Rafael's Fifth Avenue at the northern edge of the city's business district still serves the devout as a place of worship. Here is the altar at the front of the pretty little chapel. (Independent-Journal photos)

AFTER 10 YEARS of painstaking research and planning, the Mission San Rafael Arcangel was rebuilt in 1949, largely at the instigation of the Marin County Historical Society. The restored mission building can be seen at right in the photo. At left is stately St. Raphael's Church. Mission San Rafael Arcangel was founded in 1817, granted mission status in 1822, and abandoned in 1855. The last original buildings were razed in 1870.

PROFILE OF A MARINITE

Meet Niels Schultz—The Man Who Built A Marin Community

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A young man came to the United States from Germany in 1906, and now, some 56 years later, he is principal developer of the community of Greenbrae.

The man, of course, is Niels Schultz.

Schultz and his two sons, Niels Jr., 44, and Alvin, 42, are owners of the 702 acres which comprise Greenbrae.

Schultz, who is 75 but works seven days a week at his office, was born in the German county of Haderslev in the province of Schleswig Holstein in 1887. Although it was part of Germany then, it has been part of Denmark since the end of World War I.

THE YOUNGEST of a family of six, Schultz was born to farming parents. He remained on the farm helping his parents until October of 1906, when he decided to come to the United States, San Francisco in particular.

It wasn't by chance Schultz picked this time to come to San Francisco. Six months earlier, the city had been torn apart by the disastrous fire and earthquake. Schultz knew there would be plenty of work to be done here.

Before Schultz could leave Germany, he had to clear his military status. His early ambition was to join the German army to spend some time in the German colonies in Africa. But, because of poor sight in his left eye, Schultz was rejected from the army.

Thus, not being able to serve in the army, Schultz was free of any military obligation and was able to come to the U. S. The long trip by ship took 11 days from Hamburg to New York.

Schultz reflected back that a person was required to have a minimum of $30 before being allowed to come to the United States.

"I saved and had the $30," Schultz smiled.

The first six months in this country he lived in Illinois where he knew a long time friend of the family.

His first job in this country was as a porter in a hotel in Dwight, Ill., where he earned $15 per month plus free board and room.

Not being able to speak English, Schultz started taking private English lessons which cost him 50 cents per hour. Or to put it another way, the English lessons cost him a full day's work for each hour of instruction.

Schultz moved to Bloomington, Ill., where he got a job with the old Chicago-Alton Railroad cleaning out the locomotives in the roundhouse and cleaning out the pits where the locomotives were repaired.

Schultz earned 16 cents per hour, or $1.60 each 10-hour day he worked with the railroad. "That was the going pay in those days," he said.

IN MARCH OF 1907 he made the trip to San Francisco, now prepared in speaking and writing the English language.

"I confined myself to reading and speaking only English now," he declared.

He immediately got a job as a laborer and helped in clearing out the ruins in the San Francisco buildings. After a short time as a laborer, Schultz became a carpenter's helper, then took a job as an apprentice carpenter.

The gray haired but very active Schultz reflected back

FROM THE DECK of one of his apartment buildings still under construction, Niels Schultz looks across part of Greenbrae for whose development he has been largely responsible. Before developing Greenbrae, Schultz was the developer of Millbrae Highlands. "My hobby has been work," he says. (Independent-Journal photo) to San Francisco in the days of the early 1900s and recalled the horse drawn street cars which ran from the ferries to California Street.

Then he thought back to his early residence in San Francisco during those first days, a room in an old hotel on Howard Street, which years later burned to the ground taking the lives of seven persons.

"It was an old fire trap but housing was scarce then," he said.

Schultz attended old Humboldt High School in San Francisco during the evenings. Then he took some courses in drafting and business at Healds Business College.

Then, in the late spring of 1909, he was beckoned to Alaska by the adventure of a gold strike. Although the strike was far inland, Schultz stopped off at Juneau long enough to become a foreman over carpenters working in a gold mining company.

HE RETURNED on New Year's Day of 1910 to the United States before getting a chance to try his hand at striking it rich panning for gold. He was forced to leave Alaska because of a bad cold caused by the sub-zero weather.

He made enough money during his stay in Alaska to enter into the house building business. After his return to San Francisco, Schultz and two carpenter companions started building homes in the Richmond district of old San Francisco.

One of the partners was Alex McKillop who is from a pioneer Larkspur family. The other man was David Leigh who died last year. Niels had met McKillop when both were attending evening high school.

Schultz got off to a good start in the building business which was to become a huge success in later years. When the trio started the business, they did their own carpenter work, but as business flourished they eventually hired additional help.

The small building firm of Schultz, McKillop and Leigh continued a success for six years to 1916, when Schultz decided to enter the field of government contracting work. McKillop and Leigh continued home building and Schultz broke from the two.

When 27, Schultz married the daughter of a family that bought one of the houses he and his partners built in the Mission district. It was 1914. The young girl was Ellen Jurgensen.

THIS HANDSOME young man is Niels Schultz just after he arrived in the United States from Germany. The picture was taken in 1907 in San Francisco during which time Schultz had worked up from a laborer to a carpenter. He had left Germany in 1906.

he has built, this one in Greenbrae.

The first government job was building officer training barracks for Fort Scott in the Presidio of San Francisco grounds. He recalled he was given the plans at 3 p. m. on a Saturday and was told his bid would have to be in by 5 p. m. that same day. Working hurriedly, Schultz met the deadline, beat the other bidders, and got the job.

During this time, Schultz had a crew of about 30 men working under him.

Schultz took to government contracting with a flourish. He was in charge of construction of a naval radio station and hospital buildings and a gymnasium on Treasure Island. He did other construction work for the government on Angel Island and some at Mare Island.

By now he was in charge of a crew of 120 men spread over various jobs he had contracted.

Now Schultz started in the field of heavy construction work which included a contract to build a hydraulic fill dam in Plumas County. He started contracting road and grading jobs, laying pipelines and sewer systems.

HE WAS IN charge of constructing the first sewer system and treatment plant in Yosemite Valley. "Getting a good many jobs, we were kept pretty busy in those days," he recalled.

In 1923 Schultz and some associates purchased some acreage in San Francisco and subdivided into 27 blocks. The acreage, site of the 1915 Panama Pacific Exposition, was centered in the district now widely known as the Marina.

And it was during this year, 1923, that Schultz hired J. W. Comstock as his chief engineer. Comstock has been chief engineer for Schultz ever since, a position he now holds.

Schultz remained in heavy construction work until 1927 when he went into homebuilding. And he went into it big.

He purchased 280 acres in Millbrae from the Ogden D. Mills family and subdivided. Mills was a member of President Herbert Hoover's cabinet.

From 1930 to 1942 Schultz devoted all his time into the newly formed Millbrae Highlands Co. which was now increased to 310 acres after

COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT —
THATAWAY

Some of you young old timers will recall with me an old movie of some thirty years ago in which the strong willed Allison Skipworth drove out of a showroom in a brand new model A Ford, only to meet disaster via a road hog who demolished her pride and joy. The following scene depicted a messenger of an unknown eccentric who bequeathed her one million dollars.

With a good share of this new found fortune Allison purchased a fleet of trucks, hired drivers and proceeded to push all road hogs and their wheeled weapons off the streets, thereby gaining, it can be imagined, a full measure of satisfaction.

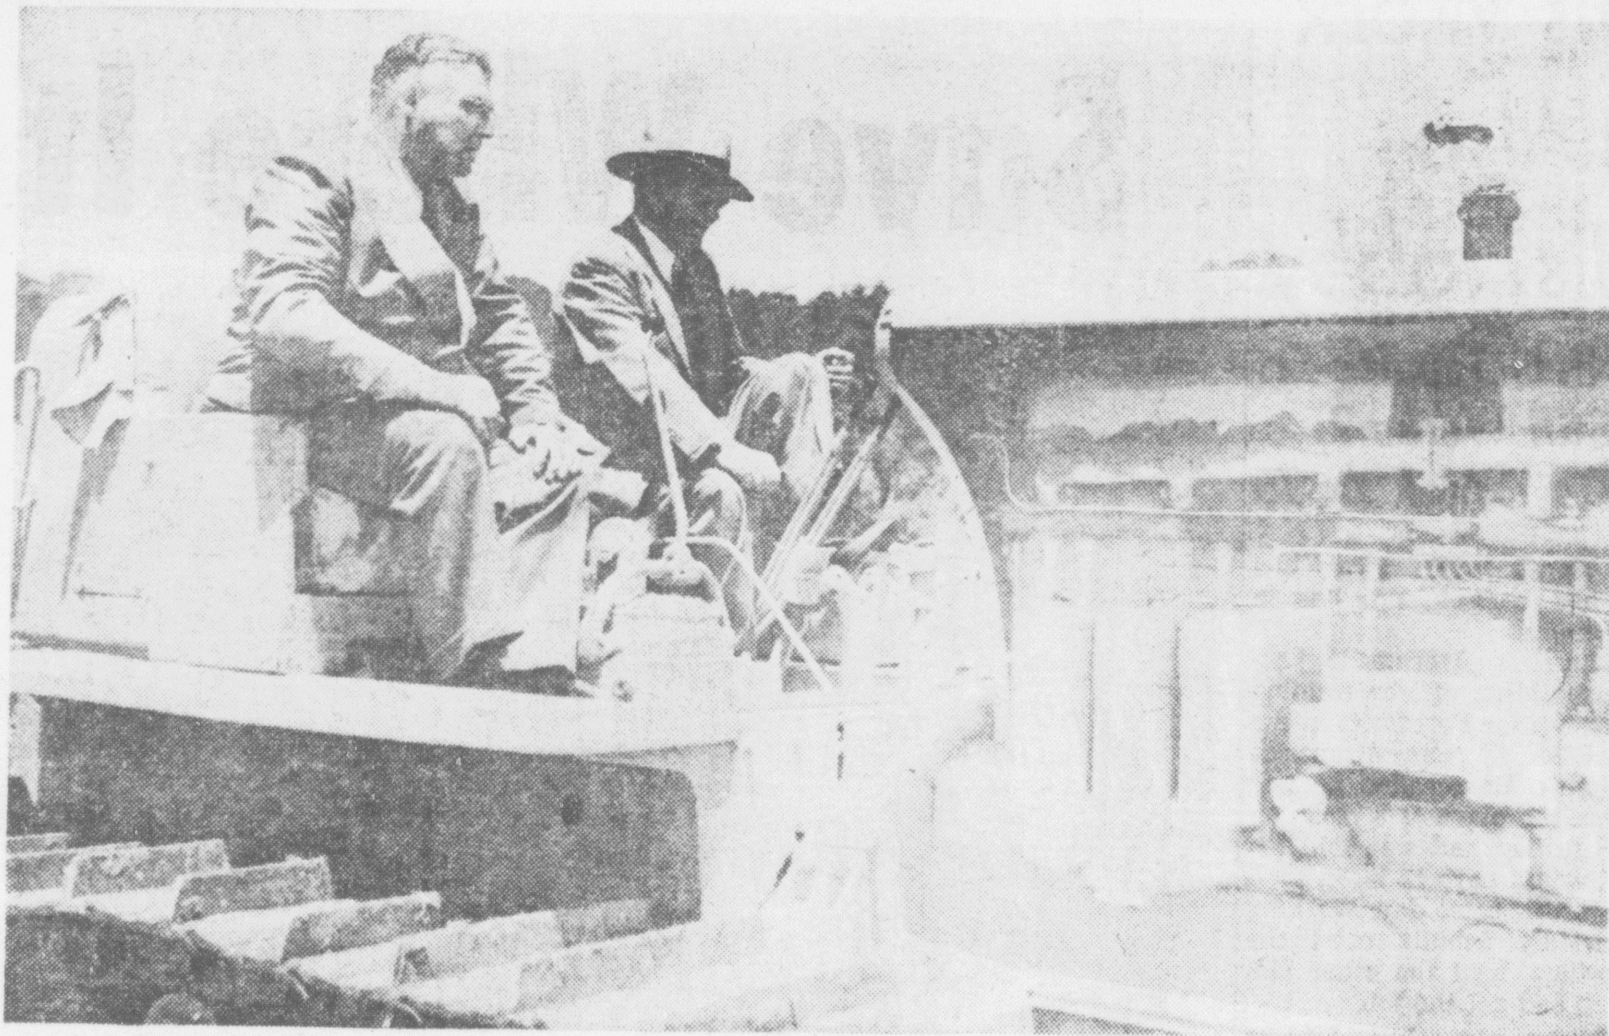

All of us, I am certain, have daydreamed a life full of satisfaction purchased from a wished-for windfall. Many a fanciful swath have I cut through life with these bonanzas. But, out with the glazed eye and the leerful grin. An experiment with a hard core segment of human nature is more appealing to a man slowed down somewhat by the relentless advance of years and who now gets his kicks from a collection of some 400 stereo albums.

Secure in the comfort of a million dollar bank account, I would be tempted to offer absolutely FREE service by expert mechanics on EVERY car brought into our service department, not one, but EVERY time it was brought in for a period of, say, six months.

Then, holding a slide rule or fingers poised over calculator, I would await the inevitable onslaught of complaints the ever present few who would shout invectives in voices loudly calculated to be heard by customers negotiating car purchases, and who would have already condemned us to their friends (?), and mailed off their stereotyped poison pen letters to the factory.

My experiment would prove nothing more than the existence of a thankfully small percentage of people who will never be happy or content in this life or in the hereinafter.

We cannot afford the free test at Ames Ford. But we will continue our policy of trying earnestly to satisfy EVERYONE with sales and service policies even though we realize we'll never make it 100%. If only the perponderant horde of satisfied customers were the loud ones, though.

DURING THE GROUNDBREAKING ceremonies in 1946 for the first of many homes to be built in Greenbrae, Niels Schultz, right, climbed aboard a tractor to help with the groundbreaking. Does the man on the left seem familiar? It's County Supervisor William D. Fusselman who held the same position back in 1946. (Photo by Houghton)

From Porter To Developer

some additional land purchases.

HIS TWO SONS, Niels Jr. and Alvin, were put to work early in the business. They cleaned out houses and did some of the street cleaning work to aid in the construction. During summer vacations from school, after school and on Saturdays, the boys were put to work.

"It was expected," Schultz said. "Some kids coming out of high school today don't know how to work and maybe never will."

In 1942 Schultz and his two sons formed their present partnership and went into defense housing during World War II. The Schultz firm built some 450 permanent houses for defense civilian workers in Benecia. Their defense housing building eventually produced about 950 homes during the war.

Schultz made his building debut in Marin County in 1946. He purchased 635 acres from the holdings of the Catholic Archbishop of San Francisco and a short time later bought another 96 acres from Hugh Porter, long time Marinite.

The property obtained from Porter is on the south side of the Corte Madera Creek, in which Schultz plans to build additional apartments and commercial buildings.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the start of the many homes which were going to be built in Greenbrae by Schultz was on May 20, 1946.

Because of complaints to the county planning commission from persons against apartment house building, the portion of Greenbrae which is now part of Larkspur was annexed by the city in 1949.

"PEOPLE CALLED the proposed development tenement houses," Schultz now says. He didn't try to fight the county when he was given the chance to annex to Larkspur.

Today, 466 acres of Greenbrae is in Larkspur. The other remaining 236 acres are in the county portion, which includes only single family homes. The commercial district of Larkspur and the apartment house development are part of the City of Larkspur, as well as many of the single family homes.

The valuation of Greenbrae today is 38 million dollars, excluding the Greenbrae firehouse, Marin General Hospital and Greenbrae School, all built in Greenbrae.

Niels Jr. specializes in the engineering end of the firm. Alvin, who received his builder's license at 21, specializes in the building end.

THERE ARE nearly 1,000 homes built in Greenbrae. Some 50 apartment buildings have been built in the community totaling 320 units, all the way from studio to three bedroom apartments.

The Schultz Building Co. has discontinued building its own homes but devote all building now to commercial and apartment houses in Greenbrae. Other contractors are still building homes in Greenbrae, however.

The man responsible for all this building claims "my hobby has been my work."

But what both Schultz and his wife enjoy most—when he is not working—is traveling, something they have done quite a bit of during their years together.

THEIR TRIPS have taken them through Europe, Africa, India, around the North Cape and Mediterranean areas to name just a few spots.

And he has not failed to collect a number of mementos of the travels, as one can see by the collection of paintings and sculpture and wood carvings throughout the family home and in his office.

He has wooden figures collected from India, China, Africa and Japan. His paintings vary from countries throughout Europe.

He has collected a mortar and pestle and apothecary jar collection for the Bon Air Pharmacy which decorate the store. The collection, although only started three years ago, contains seven mortar and pestle sets and more than 40 apothecary jars. The collection comes from Germany, Denmark, Austria, Holland, Turkey and Italy.

Schultz likes to travel to other parts of the world and see how building is progressing in other areas. "I like to find out what the rest of the world is doing in our line," he said.

He added that he has used ideas obtained from other parts of the world on his buildings in this country.

A good example of this is the Greenbrae real estate office on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near the entrance to the Greenbrae homes. With the features of a castle, it has been designed after the style of a French chateau.

When construction work was started on the Greenbrae shopping center, it was found

A Profile Of The Man Who Developed Marin's Greenbrae

In July of 1951, ancient Indian bones were discovered when the area off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was being leveled. Schultz called an immediate halt to the work around the area.

A survey team of anthropologists from University of California was called and found that the location was once a camp of Coast Miwok Indians going back about 1,000 years.

After extensive study, anthropologists found that there were bones of a skeleton which may have been 2,000 years old, from a tribe of a pre-Miwok culture.

But Schultz can think back to early development of homes in Millbrae Highlands when tusks of ancient mastodons were uncovered. All construction work continued around the area, but not at the place where the find was made. Schultz saw to that.

By the size of the tusks, anthropologists estimated the animal was probably about 13 feet high. The discovery was given to San Mateo Junior College, where it remains in the college museum.

IN ADDITION to his chief engineer Comstock, other persons in Schultz's employ give proof that he is a good man to have for a "boss."

His sales manager since 1929 is George Bogel. One of his salesmen, John Holmgren, has also been working for him since 1929, and Myrtle Marlow, another of the sales force, has been with Schultz since 1928.

There is one particular thing hanging from the wall in the Schultz office of which he has a good right to be proud. It is a California State Assembly resolution, originated by San Rafael Assemblyman William T. Bagley, commending Schultz for his service to the building industry. This man deserves it.

THE INDIANS were the favorite subjects of the late California artist Grace Carpenter Hudson. At left, a sepia oil sketch of an older Pomo Indian woman, capturing her dignity well. At right, a 1933 oil sketch of a man with a wooden pipe. Both are from the collection of C. Fredrick Faude of

MARIN COLLECTION

California's Greatest Artist

By DON KEOWN

Over a period of 25 years C. Fredrick Faude of San Anselmo has collected 23 paintings by the late Grace Carpenter Hudson.

Why this interest in the Hudson art?

"Because," says Faude simply, "she is California's greatest artist, living or dead."

And although Faude is the owner of the C. Fredrick Faude Galleries at 585 Bridge-way, Sausalito, he has never disposed of a Hudson painting since he began acquiring them.

"Some day I might sell them," he says, "but only as a collection. I've had offers both for individual pieces and for the collection. But I would never sell them individually."

THE TASK OF locating and acquiring Hudson paintings has not been an easy one, he says.

"Very few are available," he explains. Most of the estimated 600 paintings which Mrs. Hudson did during her lifetime (1865-1937) are in the hands of private owners or institutions who intend to keep them. Some of the paintings have found their way to Europe, although Faude has made all his acquisitions in this country.

Faude's collection is currently on display at the California Historical Society at 2090 Jackson Street in San Francisco. The show, which includes some sketches, memorabilia, photographs and Indian baskets, in addition to the oil paintings, is to continue through Aug. 1.

The gallery, located on the main floor of the society's building, is open to the public Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Grace Carpenter was born Feb. 21, 1865, in Potter Valley, 15 miles northeast of Ukiah, one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Carpenter. Her father had helped found the pioneer newspaper Ukiah Herald in 1860 and later became a photographer of note as well as a federal assessor and revenue collector.

From her very birth Grace Carpenter was to have a close link with the Indian tribes of her native area. For she and her brother Grant were twins. And the Indians, among whom such multiple births were rare, were fascinated by the white infants and maintained a close interest in them as they grew.

Grant Carpenter, incidentally, was to become a prominent lawyer, journalist and playwright.

In her early years Grace exhibited a talent for drawing. When she finished her grammar schooling at Ukiah, she was sent to the California

IN 1890 SHE was married to Dr. John Wilz Napier Hudson of Ukiah. She continued to paint while her husband eventually devoted his full-time to scholarly research and writing on Pomo Indian art and language. He was also an active collector of Pomo baskets and other artifacts, and eventually his collection was acquired by the Smithsonian Institute.

Dr. Hudson served as Pacific Coast ethnologist for the Field Museum of Chicago (now the Chicago Natural History Museum). And it was that institution which in 1904 commissioned his wife to paint a group of studies of the Pawnee Indians of Oklahoma, resulting in some of her finest work.

In 1901 she had traveled to Hawaii and painted there. And twice she and her husband made trips to Europe where she did additional work.

In Ukiah the Hudsons resided in a simple wood frame home with a totem pole in front that was known as "The Sun House." They also owned two summer camps on Mill Creek outside Ukiah.

Most of Grace Hudson's paintings done in her "home territory" centered around the Pomo Indians of whom she was so fond—and particularly the younger members of that tribe. She proved particularly adept at capturing the elusive, half-sad and yet winsome moods of the very young.

Joseph Armstrong Baird Jr. in a brochure prepared especially for the current California Historical Society show relates that "she cajoled reluctant mothers into allowing their babies to 'sit' by caring for the children while the mothers were otherwise occupied and quickly sketching the children's features. Mrs. Hudson soon gained the confidence of young and old, and most of her mature works were obviously well posed.

"These paintings have a gentle charm, sometimes sentimental, sometimes verging on the documentary."

AUTHORITIES and the lay public have long admired the ability of the artist to reflect her own sympathetic understanding of her subjects in her portraits of Pawnee and Pomo men, women and children.

Many of her paintings were exhibited and sold by Gump's of San Francisco.

Grace Carpenter Hudson died March 23, 1937, and was buried in the Ukiah Cemetery with a simple monument of her own design—a basalt shaft topped by a mourning phoenix.

But the most impressive Grace Carpenter Hudson memorials are the striking paintings she left behind—pieces such as those to be found in the Faude collection.

ENTITLED "TIMID," this oil on canvas provides ample proof of Grace Carpenter Hudson's much-admired ability to capture the winsome qualities of Indian children in her paintings. It shows a little girl holding a doll with a flat wooden head and rag costume. Over the child's shoulders is an animal pelt cape. The painting is signed G. Hudson and dated 1935 in the lower left hand corner.

YOU AND YOUR INSURANCE

RENT INSURANCE CAN PROVIDE EMERGENCY INCOME

The owner of an apartment building asks: "Can I insure my rental income? And if there is such insurance, will it protect against tenants who 'run out' leaving the rent unpaid?"

A rental insurance policy is available but it does not protect against non-paying tenants. The policy is designed to provide rental income in the event one of more apartments are damaged and no longer habitable.

Without rental insurance an apartment owner or manager would be deprived of his income—rents—until the damaged premises could be rebuilt to a habitable condition.

While this insurance will not always provide the full rental income during the time the untenable apartments are being repaired, it will give the owner a reasonable return on his investment for an emergency. This insurance is important since it enables the owner to pay bills and salaries even though his rental income temporarily has been reduced or discontinued.

Rent insurance is actually one of the many features of a fire policy and it can be purchased as part of an existing policy or made available as a separate policy. In some states it can be combined in an apartment owner's package policy, which gives complete property damage and liability coverage including loss of rents.

Training The Tree Is Secret Of Bonsai

Skilled Hobbyist Can Turn Ugly Duckling Into Exhibition Piece

Growing a successful bonsai tree is liking rearing well-behaved children. It's all a matter of good training.

So members of the Marin Bonsai Club will tell you.

And as a striking example of what proper training can do for one of the miniature trees, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Olson of 322 Highland Avenue, San Rafael, charter members of the Marin club, can point to one of their prize specimens.

In 1959 they bought the then six-year-old Japanese elm (Ulmus daridiani) as nursery stock. It was then a forlorn looking little tree, sparsely foliated, poorly shaped, immature in appearance.

Repotted, given loving care (the Japanese elm requires both shade and sun) and painstakingly trained (the leaves must be pinched back during the growing season), the same tree, now nine years old, is of exhibition quality today.

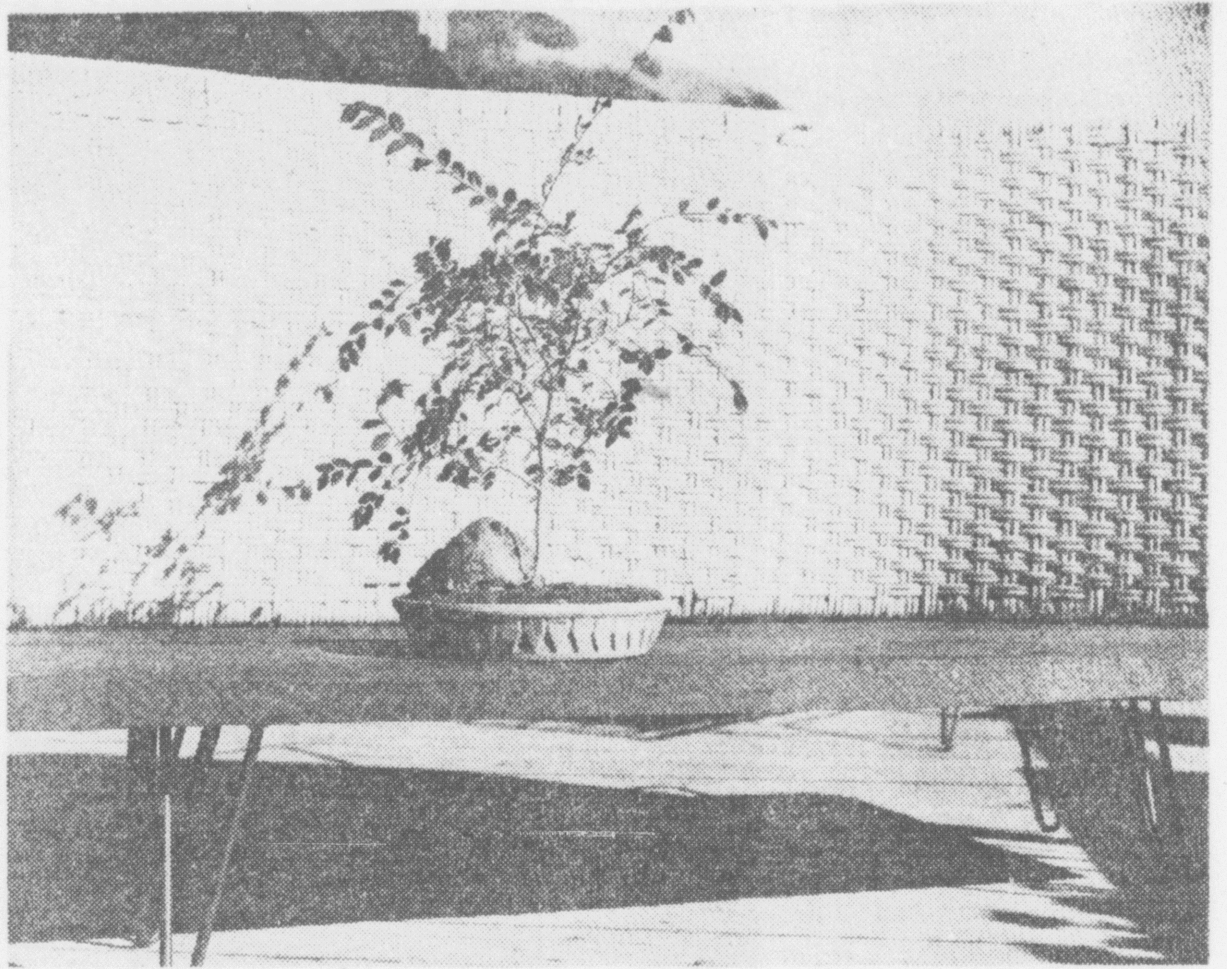

In fact it will be on exhibit next weekend at the Third Annual Bonsai Show in San Francisco's Hall of Flowers in Golden Gate Park.

The Olsons are only two of a number of Marin Bonsai enthusiasts who plan to take part in Northern California's largest showing of the dwarf trees. Seven Bay Area clubs in all are involved.

About 50 Marin trees are expected to be exhibited. The show will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. next Saturday and Sunday.

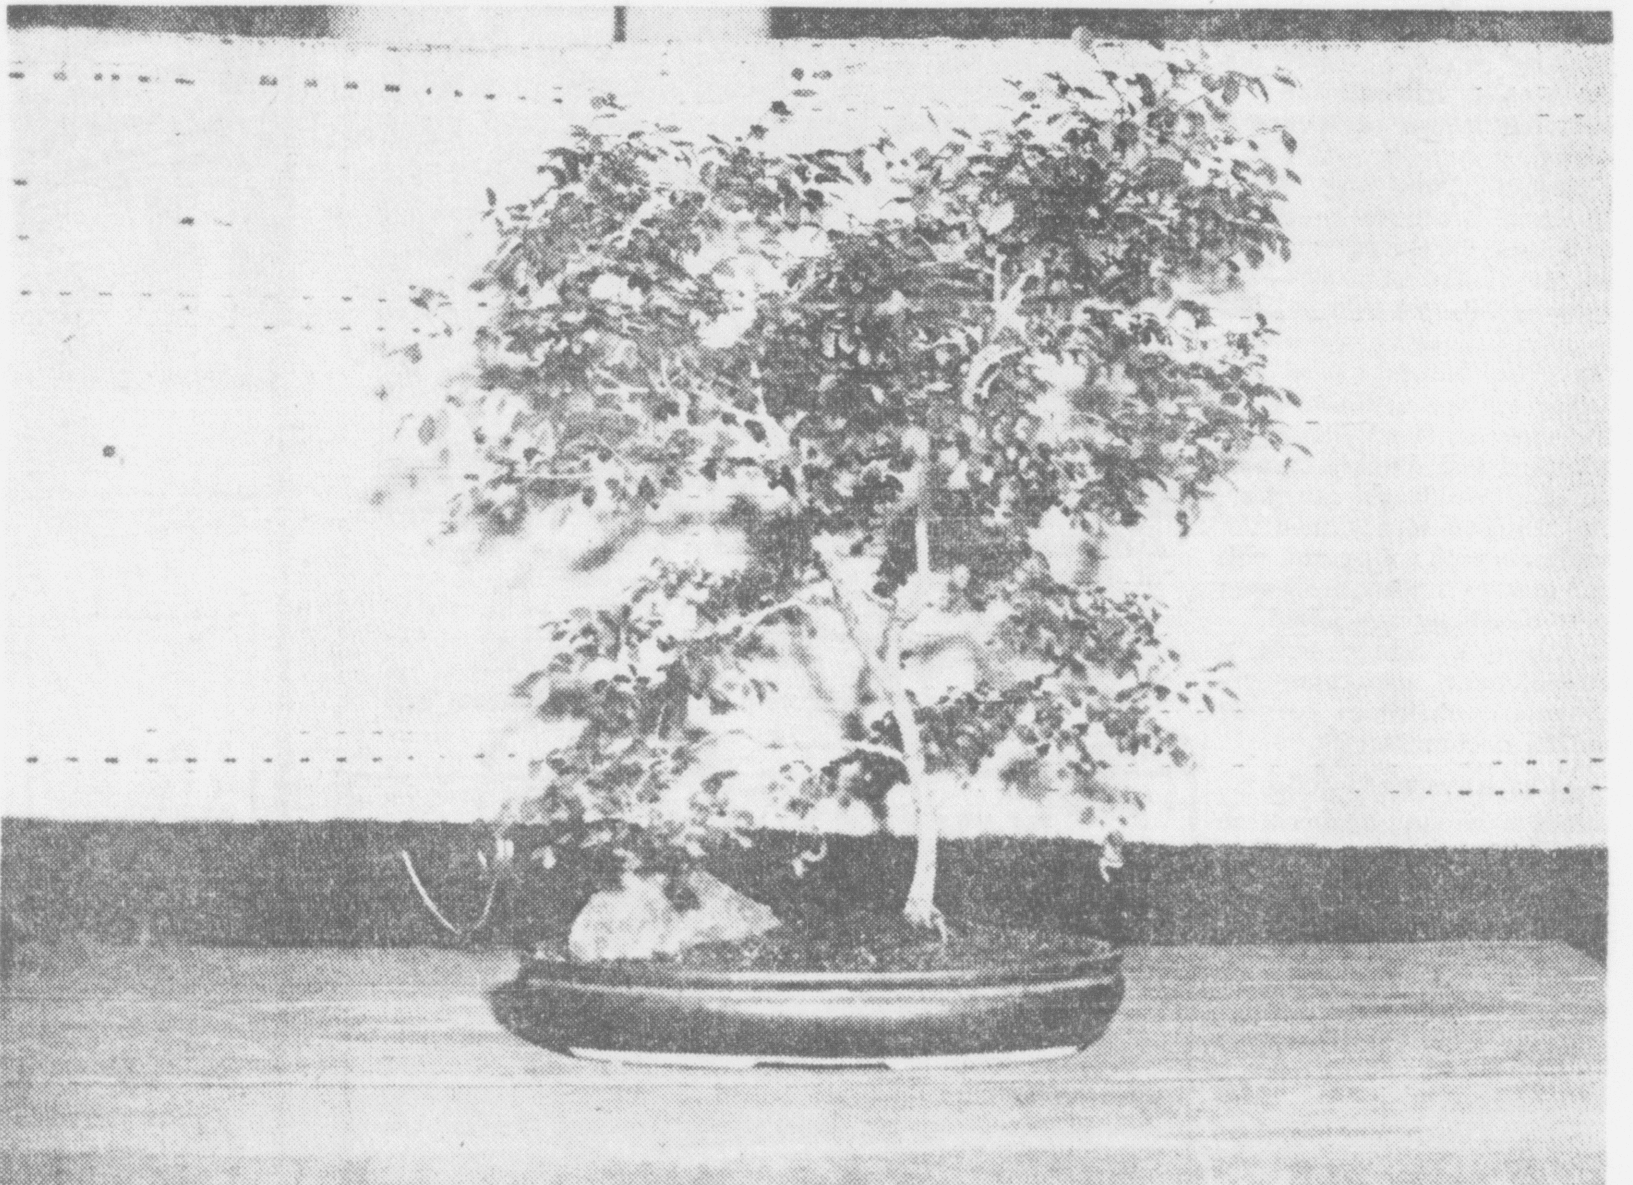

The fast-growing hobby of

THE JAPANESE ELM acquired in 1959 as nursery stock by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Olson of San Rafael looked like this then—a scraggly specimen without shape. But the Olsons saw its potentialities as a bonsai if it were given proper care and training.

THREE YEARS LATER the same Japanese elm looked like this — one of the prized members of the Olsons' collection of bonsai trees. It will be one of approximately 50 Marin-grown bonsai trees scheduled for display at the Third Annual Bonsai Show to be held next weekend at the Hall of Flowers in San Francisco's Golden Gate Park. (Independent-Journal photo)

"WHY DID MY COTTON DRESS SPLIT?"

Cotton mixtures are popular, especially in summer. To give these frocks a heavier "hand", drape and appearance, yet to keep the fabric light in weight, cotton is often combined with thin yarns such as silk, acetate, rayon or nylon.

The trouble with mixing heavy and light yarns is that the wearer is deluded into thinking she has a heavier, more sturdy garment than she actually has.

The thin yarns will snap or split due to the difference between the tensile strength of the warp and filler yarns. Even with careful wear, this splitting may occur.

If the garment is tight-fitting, if it receives hard wear, if it is subject to extra strain or pulling, the thin yarns may snap and you have a split in your cotton dress, which was not all cotton.

If you should iron a cotton mixture at home, if it is combined with nylon or acetate, the temperature setting for cotton would be too high for the mixture and the thin, fused fibers will split.

Cotton mixtures are delightful fashions, but if they are a mixture, tell your dry-cleaner before he cleans it and you will save yourself the grief that comes with split cottons. By Robt & Ronald Casassa, Marin Cleaners, Inc.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

This past week another FM Radio Station, KSFR at 94.9 Mc on your dial, started broadcasting in Multiplex Stereo. KSFR is primarily a classical music station. Their stereo quality, here in our sound rooms, is excellent. We now have four FM multiplex stereo stations that are received well in Marin County, KPEN at 101.3 Mc, KBAY at 104.5 Mc, KBCO at 105.3 Mc, and KSFR at 94.9 Mc.

Some of you that have been getting excellent FM reception on these stations may find that the station becomes distorted when you switch your set to stereo multiplex. This is primarily due to insufficient signal coming from your antenna. When a station is broadcasting in FM stereo, the signal voltage that is actually developed by your receiver that enters the audio section is cut by 90 per cent. In other words, this means that the effective range of the station for clear reception is shrunk to approximately 50 per cent of its monaural range.

Another factor that causes distortion is what we call multipath reception. This means that the signal is received two or more times by your receiver, once directly from the station and the other signals are bounces from mountains and buildings. The bounced signals arrive slightly later than do the regular signals. On your television set these show up as ghosts. On FM it causes sound distortion, especially on the higher frequencies (notes).

If you are troubled with distortion when switching to FM Stereo, the only solution is to install a good FM antenna system. We have been having very good results in Marin County by using multi-element antennas called Yagis. Within the past few weeks we have received a shipment of six-element Yagi antennas for FM that sell for $9.95. The usual price for five and six element Yagi antennas is from $20 to $30. The installation of a Yagi will make a good do-it-yourself week end project.

bonsai which came to the United States from Japan after originating among Chinese Buddhist monks centuries ago is especially popular on the West Coast. Its enthusiasts point out that their hobby permits them to indulge both their artistic and horticultural tastes.

"Almost anything, tree, bush or flower, can be 'bonsaied'," say the Olsons, "but small-leaved varieties are most effective."

Stock is obtained through seedlings from the garden, from more mature nursery material or by digging in the mountains.

"In digging the mature trees great care must be taken. And generally, the tree is placed in a protected area and not transplanted for at least a year," the Olsons add.

In addition to the exhibition of trees, the big San Francisco show will include lectures and demonstrations by bonsai experts headed by Japan's famed Yuji Yoshimura plus educational displays and motion pictures. Japan Society of San Francisco is co-sponsoring the exhibit with the Bonsai Clubs Assn.

ART TEACHER Joan Peterson gets the necessary forms from Mrs. Fran Fraas in the Reed Union School District office as she makes her initial application for a faculty position with the district. Teacher recruitment begins in January and continues into August in Marin school districts, but is at its zenith now.

FOR SCHOOL OFFICIALS

It's Recruiting Time

June may mean vacation time for school students, but for school administrators it marks one of their busiest periods.

Along with all the year-end details and the planning ahead for the year to come, the administrators also find themselves in the midst of their teacher recruitment program.

Such recruiting usually begins in January and continues through August. But in most districts, it reaches its zenith in June.

"Because Marin County is an especially attractive place in which to work and live, and because, too, Marin County schools are working toward providing the best in education for their children, the number of teacher applications is high," reports Marin Superintendent of Schools Virgil S. Hollis.

According to Hollis, as many as 2,000 public school teachers apply for jobs in Marin each year. About 300 are hired.

TYPICAL OF THE kind of teacher selection program that is conducted by each of the 26 school districts in the county is that organized by the Reed Union School District on the Tiburon Peninsula.

"Some 50 to 60 contacts for each position vacancy are received," says district Superintendent Edward C. Pino, and he outlines the procedure followed in selecting personnel for the particularly demanding curriculum requested by Reed District parents.

First, an attractive brochure, outlining the district's physical and educational characteristics, is distributed to university placement offices throughout the country. It admits frankly to one drawback: Low-cost housing is difficult to find.

But it pictures the five attractive schools, points out the salary schedule (highest in the county), includes the challenging fact that requirements are commensurately high, and states that "Reed has the highest educational goals which represent a real challenge to the excellent staff attracted to this academic climate."

PINO HIMSELF traveled in February to Harvard, Simmons, Radcliffe, Wheelock and Wellesley on a recruitment trip, augmenting the older contacts to prospective teachers that had been made by letter or telephone.

A formal filing of an application involves the presenting of transcripts, placement files and verification of experience. When warranted, interviews are arranged. Then, possibly, second interviews and visitations are set up with the candidate.

Visits to buildings and classrooms in the Reed District, talks with administrators, and an inspection of the community are included.

A check of credentials is made by personal contact or letter; the former employer, critic teacher or university professor is asked to verify recommendations or supplement them.

When the applicant is currently teaching, whenever feasible his classroom is visited by the principal in whose building the applicant would be placed. If the candidate is from out of state, arrangements are made to have an administrator of a school system in that state make the classroom visitation.

The 10-step recruitment procedure includes a final screening by the superintendent and administrative council (made up of all principals in the district). Then a telegram is sent to the individual selected. Letters are mailed candidates not selected, informing them of the action and explaining why they were not chosen.

"I WAS IMPRESSED with the professional approach to hiring that Reed District people displayed. With interviews, observations, visits and general screening processes, the district does an outstanding job," reports recent candidate Joan Peterson, just hired to handle the district's art program next year.

"Incidentally, this is the kind of job I've always dreamed of finding and never thought I'd get—they're very rare!"

With several teaching years behind her, and a Master's Degree from Harvard's graduate division, Mrs. Peterson meets Reed's qualifications—and vice versa, apparently! She and her architect husband have recently moved from San Francisco to Sausalito. Most teacher applicants, according to county Superintendent Hollis, come from out of Marin County.

Bel Aire School Principal John Fitch found especially commendable the presentation by Mrs. Peterson when interviewed. She brought a packet of art work done by former pupils which she exhibited in a teacher's group.

Reed District's procedures are duplicated in varying degree throughout the other county districts. It's just one reason why summer does not mean vacation to school administrators.

THE QUALIFICATIONS of Mrs. Peterson are discussed at a meeting of the district's administrative council. Present are Del Mar School Principal John Usilton, Superintendent ent Pino and Reed School Principal Robert Gaw. Absent from this session was Bel Aire School Principal John C. Fitch.

REED SCHOOL Principal Robert Gaw indicates to Mrs. Peterson the district's boundaries and the communities located within it to help her become acquainted with the area.

MEANWHILE, Mrs. Peterson visits one of the classrooms and sits in as an observer. It helps her to become acquainted with the classroom procedures in the district where she hopes to teach.

SUCH PAPERS AS credentials, recommendations and transcripts, submitted by Mrs. Peterson in her bid for a teaching position with the Reed School District, are examined by Edward C. Pino, the district superintendent.

AN INTERVIEW with Reed School Principal Robert Gaw is the next step for Mrs. Peterson. They discuss the district's art program as it is tailored for the various age groups which permit the seventh and eighth graders to specialize after a general foundation laid in the lower grade levels.

FINALLY, the story of Mrs. Peterson has a happy ending. She is pleased with the receipt of a wire from the Reed District notifying her she has been accepted as an art teacher for the 1962-63 term.

BOOK REVIEWS

Saga Of The Mystery Bomber Also A Tale Of Heroic Men

THE LADY BE GOOD by Dennis E. McClendon, John Day Co., 192 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The Lady Be Good is the mystery bomber which in April of 1943 failed to return to its base on the Libyan coast after an attack on Naples, Italy.

Sixteen years later the American bomber was found perfectly preserved in the wastes of Libya's interior desert. But there was no sign of her crew members.

It took a lengthy search and considerable luck to finally solve the mystery of the fate of the nine men who had flown The Lady Be Good. And it took more probing before a conclusion, satisfactory at least to some, could be reached as to just what the plane was doing in the desert where it had no business to be.

McClendon, an Air Force public information officer, tells the story from military records, personal interviews and a weighing of the evidence found in the desert.

It seems that the amount of solid material collected by McClendon would be more suitable to a magazine article than to a book. Despite the large type, the book still contains considerable padding, repetition or matter only indirectly related to the main story.

But McClendon's re-enactment of the heroic struggle by the brave crew members against the terrible Libyan desert is an inspiring one. You may well decide that that tragic saga of courage is sufficient to justify the cost of the book. We wouldn't disagree.

Faulkner's Newest

THE REIVERS by William Faulkner, Random House, 305 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

This Book-of-the-Month Club selection finds Faulkner capitalizing upon his gift for comedy as he narrates the misadventures of an oddly-assorted trio during an automobile trip in the South of 1905.

From familiar Yoknapatawpha County, Miss., to Memphis, motor 11-year-old Lucius Priest and his two companions, a burly handyman with the mind of a child and a shrewd and philosophical Negro. It was no small journey in those times. And then when they reach their destination, things really get out of hand.

Our greatest difficulty in reading the book was with the usually much-admired Faulkner style. It seemed to us a matter of pace. Faulkner books are not meant for rapid reading. And yet this light-hearted, lively little story seems to us to be the very kind of book which should not be labored over, but read rapidly for maximum enjoyment.

On the other hand, Faulkner's wonderful touch for characterization is very much present. He has a marvelous ability for understanding and presenting human motivations and reactions on all levels with dignity and without becoming patronizing or preachy. And, as always, Faulkner is committed totally and deeply to the spirit of the places, the times and the people about whom he is writing.

It is an amusing book and a warm book.

Essays By Gold

THE AGE OF HAPPY PROBLEMS by Herbert Gold, Dial Press, 238 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

In the introduction and opening chapter of his first attempt at non-fiction, San Francisco novelist Herbert Gold seems to be promising a sweeping investigation into the problems with which mankind is preoccupied.

"Let's quit fooling ourselves," he seems to be saying, "and recognize that the things we fret about the most are not the really important things."

Unhappily in the chapters that follow no such investigation materializes. Instead there is a series of essays restricted to specific subjects—divorce, Greenwich Village, hipsters and beatniks, fiction, Cleveland, the life of an artist's wife, etc.

It is not that what Gold has to say on these topics is not interesting. Usually it is, and often it has wider application. It is just that the reader has been led to hope for so much more.

It would have been nice if Gold had applied his keen mind, refreshing point of view and writing gift on a broader plane. But since he didn't, we will have to make do with what he has given us.

Admirers of Anne Morrow Lindbergh's best seller, "Gift From the Sea," will appreciate this small, reflective volume as well.

This time the author has chosen a June wedding, with its closely related dramatic personae, around which to weave her delicate reflections. Beginning on a rather thin, sentimental plane, the musings then move into the interesting family groupings, settling first on one soul and then another a few faces away.

Mrs. Lindbergh employs the words of the marriage ceremony to evoke the troubling thoughts and soul-searching questions which underlie the benign and bored coun-

Modern Melodrama

WELCOME TO THEBES by Glendon Swarthout, Random House, 372 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Glendon Swarthout seems to delight in demonstrating his versatility.

From his tragic "They Came to Cordura" he went to the rollicking comedy, "Where the Boys Are." Now comes "Welcome to Thebes," described as a modern melodrama.

This time, however, he handicaps himself with an awkward style. He backs into many of his sentences. He purposely jumbles his chronology. He leaves you in doubt, sometimes for pages, as to just what characters are conversing. And for some reason, he omits quotation marks around quotes, a device that wearies as well as confuses the reader.

It's another in the "King's Row" school of novels exposing the sins of the residents of a small town.

An embittered and unscrupulous novelist named Sewell Smith returns to his hometown of Thebes, Mich., determined to restore his crumbling financial and literary fortunes and at the same time gain vengeance upon the men he believes have wronged him and his father.

But Smith is such a complete heel without redeeming features that this reader felt revulsion but little interest in him.

And while one by one the town elders are exposed as rapists of a 14-year-old girl, the story seems too contrived to be believed.

There may be enough sex, violence and four-letter words to guarantee a brisk sale of the book, but it is not a good novel.

Ursula Curtiss has yet to write a bad crime-suspense story. But this one is special, even for her.

She sets her story in New Mexico and builds it around a scheming, murderous little lady of 70. From the outset the reader knows that Mrs. Marrable has killed not once but several times. But there remains a strong element of suspense which Miss Curtiss plays to the hilt right through the final chapter.

Characterizations are so real the principals begin to seem like old acquaintances. The atmosphere is superb, the plot clever and believable.

Here is a collection of 16 such Crispin short stories with his delightful detective, Gervase Fen, professor of language and literature and devotee of criminology, as the sleuth in most of them. All are highly entertaining.

STEREO NOTES

Two Greats Of The Piano Remembered In Records

By JOHN SUNIER
Editor, Bay FM and Cultural Guide

THE GREAT RACHMANINOFF—RCA Victor LM-2587: Since his death in 1943, Sergei Rachmaninoff has been remembered by the Victor releases from their vaults of masterworks.

This genius of the keyboard is now heard in a new group of selections recorded between 1927 and 1942, four of them presented on LP for the very first time: "Scherzo," by Mendelssohn; "Prelude in C-Sharp Minor," by Chopin; "The Harmonious Blacksmith" by Handel; and a waltz by Johann Strauss Jr.

Rachmaninoff's career as a concert pianist spanned over 50 years and his popularity grew from a small band of followers to sold-out houses and a world-wide audience.

To round out an excellent (and inexpensive) library of performances by this pianist giant, may I recommend the earlier Camden releases, "The Art of Sergei Rachmaninoff," Volumes I and II.

THE UNFORGETTABLE WILLIAM KAPELL—Khachaturian's "Concerto for Piano & Orchestra" (with Boston Symphony/Koussevitzky); Rachmaninoff's "18th Variation from Rhapsody and a Theme of Paganini"; Albeniz's "Evocacion"; Liszt's "Mephisto Waltz"—RCA Victor LM-2588:

A decade following the death of Rachmaninoff, the music world lost another genius of the piano, young William Kapell.

The 1946 recording of the Khachaturian showcases a blazing technique and contrasts a deeply lyrical treatment of the slow movement with a fast-tempo and ruthless performance of the energetic finale. The orchestral sound is surprisingly good and the piano sound gorgeous.

Fine job of re-processing from the pre-lp era.

The "Mephisto Waltz" is also an extremely virtuosic work which is given a new and refreshing interpretation by the late Kapell on this outstanding disc.

Fairfax School Has Its Own Art Gallery

It's Project Of P-TA At Deer Park

By ROSALIE BROWN

The idea for the Deer Park School's new art gallery originated with Parent-Teacher Assn. member Mrs. Victor York, herself an artist.

Audrey York walked into the library of the Fairfax school recently, looked around at the walls and began to think.

"What would happen," she wondered, "if, in addition to the books available there to Deer Park's first through sixth graders, there were also some pictures to look at, folders of prints and books about the lives and works of artists?"

MRS. YORK'S idea was to provide the youngsters with an atmosphere where art came naturally — where the children would come into contact with the best as a matter of course.

Mrs. York discussed her plan with P-TA president Mrs. James Jenkins.

Mrs. Jenkins, a musician, was personally sympathetic to and interested in all the arts. Also sympathetic was Mrs. Harry Ryan, Deer Park's volunteer P-TA member librarian.

The library had originated as much the same kind of a project as the proposed art gallery — instigated, planned and catalogued by Mrs. Ryan, with, of course, the help of other P-TA members.

Eventually the membership of Deer Park P-TA voted a small sum to begin the art project, and Mrs. York got a committee together: Mrs. Sidney Foote, Mrs. Harold Baldwin, Mrs. David Campbell, Mrs. Herbert Briscoe and Mrs. John Rockwell.

The help of others was enlisted also, especially that of Victor York, husband of Audrey and a teacher at San Francisco State College. Victor proved to be a whiz at framing, and at helping Audrey with the preparation of prints for hanging.

A wide variety of artists was selected representing different schools and periods from the great Renaissance painters and earlier to moderns like Picasso and Paul Klee. Prints were so well prepared by the Yorks that many of them give the effect of being originals.

It is the P-TA's idea to have a rotating series of paintings and prints, with frequent changes; some of these will belong to the school's collection and some will be on loan

KEY FIGURES in the Deer Park Parent-Teacher Assn. art gallery project are Mrs. James Jenkins, left, president of the P-TA unit, and Mrs. Vic York, the art chairman.

It was Mrs. York who originated the idea for the gallery which is located in the library of the school for grade school children. She is an artist herself.

from interested community members.

THE COLLECTION will rotate in another sense, also. It is hoped that eventually other schools in the Fairfax district will have a place to show prints, and will add their own collections to those of the Deer Park School so that a large reservoir of art work can be built up for the children of the district.

Although various schools in the county have had sporadic showings of art, or have encouraged art in various ways, it is believed by the Deer Park P-TA that their plan represents a pioneer effort in the county for art appreciation on a larger scale. Visitors in the area are invited to come in and see the opening showing of prints in the school's library on the second level of the split-level school.

If Father Likes To Garden, Here Are Gift Suggestions

Father's Day is only a week away.

And if that leaves you wondering what in the world dad might like, then you are just like the rest of us. Fathers are really more difficult to shop for than mothers, for unless it's shaving equipment, there's no universal answer.

If father is a gardener, however, you can always make him happy by giving a gift he can garden with. He'll appreciate not only the thought, but the gift itself, whether it's growing or merely an accessory to that fact.

If, having decided on a garden gift, you are still in a dilemma about what to make it, the best thing for you is a gift certificate. Most nurserymen have gift certificates for sale and these may be converted by "dear 'ol dad" into whatever in the nursery strikes his fancy—be it blooming plants, bug bombs or books. These nurserymen's gift certificates are often overlooked when special days such as this come along.

On the other hand, you may know dad's garden needs, or you may prefer the surprise element of plunking a lovely full-bloom plant down in front of him, knowing full well that, being a gardener, he'll like it. In this case you may find the following notes of some help as a shopping guide to any nursery:

From the standpoint of plants in bloom, you can buy him anything from a dozen Tuberous Begonia seedlings, which should be in bloom for Father's Day, to a lovely blooming rose bush to a decorative dwarf citrus tree, full of colorful fruit. This is merely to say that nurseries are full of color in mid-June and all of it is transplantable directly into the garden.

A checklist of possibilities should include, in addition to the above, the following plants in bloom: Chrysanthemums, either the florist specimens which nurserymen offer year round, or the compact little summer mums, which will bloom from now on through the warm weather; Fuchsias, especially those already nurtured by your nurseryman into lovely hanging baskets of bloom; Hydrangeas, more colorful shrubs than which are not to be found in June; Hibiscus, the season for which is just getting under way; Lantana, more notably the compact varieties such as Christine and Radiation or the terrific, trailing Gold Rush Improved.

Plants in bloom are not the only things to consider.

Give Dad an unusual planter for his desk or office. One such planter suggestion would be a miniature cactus garden which would be a day-after-day reminder of your thoughtfulness. Your nurseryman or florist has many unusual and exotic plants with which he makes an outstanding Father Day gift planter—either desk-size or a larger planter to lend a decorator touch to his office. Never pass over the unusual—it might be just the thing Dad would like.

Another suggestion from your nurseryman is the fact that men like to have plenty of tools to make his work easier and books on "how to garden" are excellent possibilities.

CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓ Plant annual bedding plants for late summer and fall color.
- ✓ Lawns watered deeply and less frequently are happiest. If compaction prevents water penetration, use a corer.
- ✓ Use containers of yellow Marguerite for a quick show of color in your garden.
- ✓ Figure on feeding Chrysanthemums with liquid fish about every third week. Include Fuchsias and Begonias in this schedule, too.
- ✓ Snails are year-round visitors in our gardens and should be greeted with bait or pellets. You can simply scatter the latter.

A SPECIES pre-dating Biblical times, the olive tree makes a handsome, vigorous evergreen. While it is especially suitable for the dryer, hotter inland areas of California, it will thrive in Marin's cooler climate. Subsoil should permit deep penetration of the roots. Inset shows you what the olive tree will look like at your nurseryman's. (California Assn. of Nurserymen photo)

Home For Career Couple

Del Mar House Fits Bill

Since marriages where both parties have active careers are becoming more frequent, it follows that homes designed for such couples are more and more in demand.

Such a house is the one designed and built in June of 1961 by the Tiburon Development Co. in its Del Mar residential area off the Belvedere-Tiburon Highway for Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Skvaril.

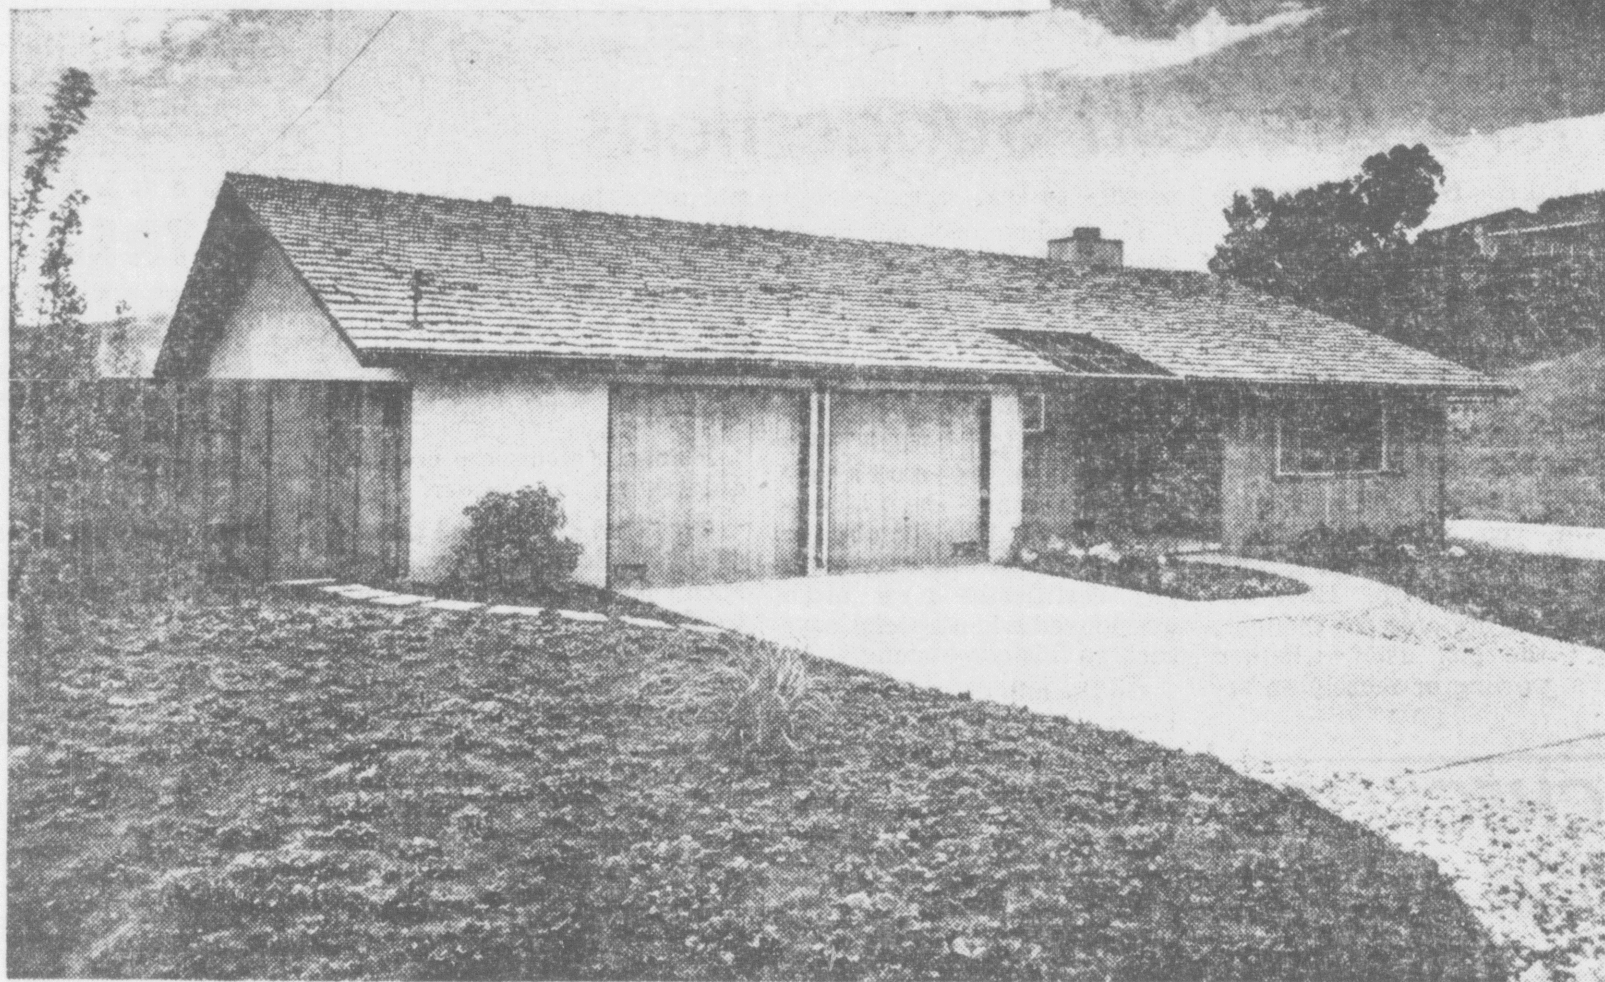

Approaching the house at 10 Rowley Circle, one walks through a beautifully landscaped front garden which has been designed and constructed by the Skvarils. It utilizes pebbles, lawn, flowers and basic planting for a compact and simple effect.

Mrs. Skvaril, who is a graduate of Purdue University majoring in education and art, has put her artistic background to good use in achieving a harmonious effect not only in the garden but in the house itself. Incidentally, she still sets some time aside to pursue her hobby of oil painting.

THE MAIN living quarters of the home are keyed to a three-way fireplace which permits Mrs. Skvaril to cook and still be part of the social life, whether it is "dinner for two" or a party.

The front hall has a pleasing charcoal slate floor and opens through a partially wood louvered entry to the main living room which has an 18-foot ceiling in the center, clerestory windows in the higher wall and conventional windows under the nine-foot height outer walls. Walking around the three-way fireplace one reaches the dining and kitchen area, so accessible for eating and entertaining.

The living room is charming. Walls are bone white with all exposed wood in na-

LANDSCAPING THE GROUNDS around a new home can be a lot of fun, the Paul J. Skvarils of Del Mar have found. Despite busy careers, they already have a lush lawn growing. And their plants are beginning to show how the charm of the house will be set off to striking advantage when the plantings reach full growth.

tural mahogany to give depth and contrast. Two sofas in rich green monotoes flank one corner of the room highlighted by a dramatic seven-foot lamp.

The room has much life and vitality partially due to the use of accessories by Mrs. Skvaril which features extensive use of indoor plants. Wall to wall all-wool carpet is of soft beige which flows into a matching tessera floor in the dining room. White bark cloth forms a pleasing curtain wall on one side of the room.

The dining room opens to a delightful outside terrace with built-in benches and a brick barbecue pit.

THE KITCHEN is open-plan with a divider bar where three attractive white plastic and brass bar stools pull up for informal eating. It is all electric and shows the usual detail that builder Frederick Rowley and Hugh Harn put into all their Del Mar homes. Accessories and appliances are of copper and contrast interestingly with the dark wood cabinets, wood formica tops, soft beige tessera floor.

An interesting aspect of the kitchen is the small personal desk with its own bulletin board and storage space for cook books. An open rack displaying copper kettles is functional and decorative.

The coordinated effect of the home is further enhanced by the bone white walls in the three-bedroom, two-bath wing. Here is a slight shift in flooring as the all-wool carpet throughout the wing is of gold.

Two lavish baths, also a trademark of Del Mar homes, are finished in mosaic tile, one in grey and one in soft beiges and browns. Wood shutters in the baths give a trim effect and are easily kept clean—a special requirement for these busy people.

One of the bedrooms is set up as a music room since Skvaril was a professional jazz musician during his pre-college and college days at Purdue University, where he graduated from the school of chemical engineering. He still likes to take a go at jazz and the conga drums. Mrs. Skvaril can be prevailed upon occasionally to play the piano she refinished herself.

Curtains of orange burlap were designed and made by Mrs. Skvaril who likes to sew and makes as many of her

THE FIREPLACE WALL in the living room of the Paul J. Skvaril home in Del Mar is dramatic in effect. And it provides seating for a game of chess while the players listen to the hi-fidelity set concealed behind sliding doors in the bookcase wall of mahogany. The Del Mar development, by the Tiburon Development Co., is located on the Belvedere-Tiburon Peninsula.

A COZY NOOK for checking bills or performing the other paperwork involved in the routine of conducting a household was provided in the bedroom of the Skvaril home. Another bedroom has been converted into a music room for Skvaril who is a jazz enthusiast.

own clothes as time will permit.

THE SKVARILS came to California so that Skvaril could design, build and manage the local branch plant of American Alkyd Industries in Richmond. Mrs. Skvaril keeps busy as a technical librarian at the Stauffer Chemical Co.'s Richmond Research Center.

The Skvarils are delighted with their compact, efficient home designed with ease of upkeep in mind, fun for living and hobbies. Oh, yes, Skvaril is also an amateur photographer, having been named one of the prize winners in the 1961 Palace of Fine Arts Christmas photography contest—AND—the attractive mosaic table in the living room was designed and made by Mrs. Skvaril.

So, the Skvarils have only praise for their Del Mar home which enables them to pursue all their hobbies and live the good life.

THE PROCESS OF CREATION is shown in this picture sequence. At upper left, two old friends animatedly discuss a new venture. Igor Stravinsky (glasses and dark sweater) makes a point to choreographer George Balanchine about his newest major work, and his first expressly written for television, the dance drama "Noah and The Flood," which will have its world premiere as a Breck

"Golden Showcase" special Thursday on the CBS network. At upper right, director Kirk Browning and Balanchine go over the score. Upper center, Balanchine works out a choreographic movement. Other photos are of Balanchine rehearsing members of his world famed New York City Ballet company, who will be performing the ballet. Lower right corner, the end of a rehearsal and a weary ballerina rests her legs. KPIX will carry the special at 9 p.m.

A SADISTIC Soviet Army officer is portrayed by Vic Morrow in "The Iron Silence," the "General Electric Theater" drama that will be given a repeat showing on KPIX tomorrow night at 9 o'clock. Ronald Reagan and Carol Lawrence have the lead roles.
